REEDER IS CENTER'S CHOICE

He Wins Over W. C. Arnold on Tuesday by a Small Majority.

THE CONVENTION AN EXCITING ONE

Order Was Forgotten in Many Instances in Tuesday's Centre County Republican Convention—A Detailed Report.

The Republican county convention met at the Court House on Tuesday to elect two delegates to the state convention and congressional conferees to meet with the conferees of the other four counties to nominate a candidate from the Twenty-eighth Congressiontl district.

Early in the morning the delegates commenced to arrive in town and immediately they were taken charge of by either the Reeder or Arnold forces. When the train from Philipsburg arrived it brought a large delegation of Arnold followers, including W. C. Arnold himself. This delegation was literally covered with Arnold badges and ribbons. They made their headquarters at the Bush House, where Mr. Arnold received his friends in the parlors on the second floor. The Howard contingent was next to arrive and they, too, were wearing the Arnold and Quay symbols—long badges bearing Arnold's picture and Quay buttons.

At the Reeder headquarters everything was bustle from early in the morning until the time for the convention to come to order. It became apparent at an early hour, judging from the large number of delegates constantly in attendance at the Reeder folds. that he would be the winning candidate.

It was just 11.10 when the County Chairman called the convention to order. Secretary Keller then read the call of the convention, after which Secretary Thomas Mitchell called the roll of delegates. There were two absent and 122 present.

The selection of a permanent chairman of the convention came up and resulted in the unanimous election of Col. J. P. Coburn of Haines township. Chairman Coburn was escorted to the chair by Charles F. Cook of Bellefonte and Mr. Lytle of College township amidst the deafening applause of the delegates and spectators. Cries for "speech!" "speech!" were so numerous that Col. Coburn was compelled to respond. In a few words he thanked the delegates for the honor of presiding over them and also paid a beautiful and brilliant tribute to the Republican party, of which he said he was proud to be a representative.

The selection of secretaries was next and Fred. Dale of Lemont and John Hoover of Philipsburg were unanimously chosen. George W. Fisher of Half Moon township was selected as reading clerk. The officers then took their respective places and the convention got down to hard business. The delegates were, as many as possible, seated within the railing of the bar and the two factions were solidly massed ready for work.

Capt. S. H. Bennison presented a resolution of order of business which was read and accepted.

The following committee on resolutions was then chosen: J. P. Harris, Andrew Gregg, A. P. Rishel, H. H. Osmond and G. E. Chandler.

The first regular business to be transacted was the selection of two delegates to the State Convention. The names of S. S. Crissman, of Philipsburg F. H. Clemson of Benore and C. F. Deininger Centre Hall were presented. Mr. Crissman stepped forward and asked that his name be withdrawn and as nothing was said for a few seconds he then insisted upon it. His withdrawal was then unanimously accepted and Messrs Clemson and Deininger were chosen by acclamation.

The next and most important was the selection for Congress. It was here that the trouble was anticipated and everybody was nerving himself up for the ballot. The two candidates—Reeder and Arnold—were together in the back room awaiting results.

Dr. George F. Harris of Bellefonte nominated Col. W. F. Reeder as a candidate for Congress from the twenty-eight district. E. F. Townsend of Philipsburg then arose and in a brilliantly painted address he presented the name of W. C. Arnold of DuBois. He stated that it was customary to grant a representative a second term and asked that the people vote for, as Mr. Townsend termed it "the friend of the old soldier" and the one who was not afraid to run for election last term when others were keeping in hiding. Both nominations were greeted with loud and continued applause and as soon as order was obtained the convention proceeded to ballot. Reading clerk Fisher read the names of the delegates and the secretaries recorded the votes as they were called out. It was apparent to all that the winner would receive but a small majority and the resnlt was awaited with much anxiety by everybody. When the figures had been footed up it was found that Reeder had received 72 delegates and Arnold 50. This annoucement caused much cheering and stamping of feet from the Reeder followers. This result was expected but what followed was unlooked for and while it could not be helped it should never have been allowed in the convention.

A resolution was presented moving that three named congressional conferees be selected to confer with the conferees of Forest, Elk, Clearfield and Clarion counties. At the direction of the chairman these resolutions were referred to the committee on resolutions.

Philip D. Foster then rose and presented a resolution moving that the nominee, Col. W. F. Reeder be allowed to choose his our conferees. It was here that the storm broke out. S.S.Crissman was on his feet in an instant loudly clamoring for the recognition of the chairman. Everybody was on their feet at once asking to be heard. Chairman Coburn ordered the convention to proceed to a vote on the resolutions moving that Col. Reeder be allowed to select his own conferees. Again Mr. Crissman and a dozen other Arnold sympathizers were on their feet and demanding to know why their resolution asking that the convention name the delegates be referred to the committee on resolutions when another resolution was allowed to be balloted on. For a few moments the convention was in an uproar and it was some time before Chairman Coburn could restore quiet. The vote was however taken and by a majotity of twelve votes it was decided that Col. Reeder should name his own conferees. This was loudly applauded by the Reederites much to the discomfiture of the Arnold supporters. But there was yet more to follow. It followed, too, and in a way that was surprising to everybody. Before the next proceeding had come to an end the convention was a scene of chaos for fully ten minutes. The trouble arose over a motion that Mr. Arnold be made the second choice for Congress from Centre County.

This motion was made by Mr. Crissman, who said that in his opinion it was only fair that the brilliant efforts of Mr. Arnold should be at least recognized in the convention. Chairman Coburn referred the resolution to the Committee on resolutions and this set the convention again in an uproar. The scene for a few moments was an unparalelled one in the history of Centre County politics. The Philipsburg delegates publicly stood up and denounced the order of the chairman a "gag" to defeat Arnold by fair means or foul and that they were strongly opposed to any such proceedings. Mr. Crissman was gesticulating wildly and declaring that the Philipsburgers were not receiving fair play at the hands of the Bellefonte machine as he called it He said that they had come to the convention to receive fair treatment and that that was only what they wanted. He said they were so far out in the suburbs that they were not supposed to know anything about the convention being "fixed," but they were decidedly opposed to any such methods as the machine was resorting to. This caused another outbreak in the convention and so many were talking at once that it was impossible to hear just what any one person really was saying or who he was talking to. After some loud rapping on the bar with his gavel, Chairman Coburn partly restored order, but the scene was still one of intense excitement.

At this juncture of the proceedings Col. W. F. Reeder appeared and asked permission to say a few words. This request being granted, Col. Reeder protested against any such resolutions that would bind him down and endorsing Mr. Arnold for second choice, and asked his friends to vote it down, as it was unfair and unjust to hamper a candidate with any such instructions. This was the signal for prolonged cheering on the part of the Reeder friends and much hissing from the Philipsburg side of the house.

Col. Coburn then moved that the question be decided by a verbal vote. Again Mr. Crissman was on his feet with an objection. He wanted to know why it should not be decided by a rising vote as was the resolution on the subject of conferees. The controversy over this question became so bitter that fully thirty delegates were on their feet at one time.

"You are out of order," declared the chairman. "We don't care what we are," replied the objectors, "we want fair play and don't you forget it." Wild scenes of disorder then followed, and subsided only when Mr. Crissman had been called to the back room to confer with Mr. Arnold. The question as to how the vote should be taken was wrangled about for some time, until Mr. Arnold himself appeared and asked that fair treatment be accorded his friends and that the matter be allowed to proceed to a vote.

The chair then ordered that a verbal vote be taken. This was done and it resulted in a vote of 64 to 58 for the Reeder people, or against instructing for Arnold for second choice for congress from Centre County. The applause that followed this decision could be heard fully two squares away and when it had subsided somewhat Col. Reeder was compelled to appear and respond to the loud cries of "Reeder, Speech! Speech!"

In a few words the nominee thanked the people for their faithful support to him and pleged himself to use every honorable means to secure the nomination from the district. His address was well delivered and elicited thundering applause from everybody in the house.

A set of resolutions was then prepared and presented to the convention. They were unaminously adopted. They were as follows:

The Republicans of Centre County in Convention assembled hereby renew their allegiance to the principles and traditions of the Republican party-the party of the immortal Lincoln, of the honored Grant, of the martyred Garfield, and of the lamented statesman Blaine.

And we do hereby resolve:

First: That we adhere to the doctrine of protection, to American industries, and American labor which the Republican party has uniformly endeavored to inculcuate throughout its career. By this policy whenever enforced the country ha made rapid strides, and peace and prosperity have been visited upon a happy and contented people. We believe that the Republican party by this policy had always fostered good goverment and has brought about contentment, among our people, and we commend this policy at this time to the people of this nation as the only means of restoring prosperity throughout our land. And we believe in the doctrine of recipocity with other nations as a means of expending our commerce and establishing more friendly our position among other nations of the earth.

SECOND: We believe that the agitation for the free coinage of silver does most seriously disturb all our material industries and such agitation is a severe blow to our public and private credit. While gold remains the standard of our monitary system we declare our belief that that standard should be firmly and honoarbly maintained.

THIRD: We command the Republican administration of our State as being wise and economical and for the best interests of the people; giving as it has to the charities and belovolences which belong to the people their just and full share of the public money of this State.

RESOLVED, That the sentiment of the Republicans of Centre county is largely in favor of that pure and eminent statesman, true American, and able representative of protection to American industries, Governor William McKinley of Ohio for President of the United States; and that the del egates this day elected to the State Convention should support the election of del egates to the National Republican Convention who will support his nomination for President.

MR. ARNOLD'S STATEMENT.

A REPUBLICAN representative called on Mr. Arnold immediately at the conclusion of the convention and in reply to the question as to whether he had anything to say as to the result, he said:

"I was in Bellefonte on March 30 and was then assured Centre County had no candidate for congress. A few days later I asked the chairman of the Republican County Convention both by wire and by letter to print my name on the tickets. This was refused me by a telegram sent me which reached me late in the evening of April 8, when I was then at work securing Clarion county. Mr. Reeder it seems, had begun on the 6th to quietly send out his tickets, while my friends only discovered the trick the day before the primaries, when it was too late for my friends to get my tickets into all the districts. I am really surprised that I received 50 delegates and also a majority of the popular vote, when I considered the trickery and the work of the administration employees brought into Centre from Harrisburg. In addition all the combine and McKinley forces were "worked" because I have been and am a friend of Senator Quay. I have only to add that the enemies of Quay and myself will find they have made a mistake. I was not in Centre during Mr. Reeder's canvass, only returning home from Clarion Co. in the evening of the day of Centre's primaries.

For the information of my friends I say that I will be the Republican nominee for Congress in the 28th district."

Governor Hastings Talks.

The following despatch dated Harrisburg appeared in this morning's Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. Coming as it does so close after the Centre county Convention it may prove interesting to the people

"The action of the Centre county convention yesterday in passing a resolution complimenting Maj. Mckinley was a surprise to Gov. Hastings, who said:

"I understood there was a movement to have a direct vote in Centre for presidential choice, which I suppose fell through, as I have heard nothing of it. I am informed by those who were present that the presidential question was lost sight of in the fight for congress between Col. Reeder and Mr. Arnold, and the McKinley resolution was an afterthought from those who were disappointed. Of the facts however I know nothing.

"I have observed that in several counties of the state local candidates fasten themselves upon the popularity of one or the other of the presidental candidates and thereby appearing to make a good deal more fuss about presidential possibilities than really exist in my judgement. Pennsylvania Republicans should give loyal support to the Pennsylvania candidate. The argument that Pennsylvania is too strongly Republican to come within the presidential range is old, but worthless. It is not necessary now to give the nomination to a doubtful state to secure success at the polls. Besides there is no doubtful northern state. Maine, Ohio and Iowa now are as surely Republican as Pennsylvania, only they don't equal us in there majorities. We emphasize our loyalty to American protection and sound money by a hundred thousand more majority than they do, but that fact should not work against a home candidate.

"It is pretty nearly Pennsylvania's time for a presidential candidate, if such things are to be considered "added the governor "and a united and enthusiastic support would in my judgment, bring the Pennsylvania candidate far inside the possibility circle.

I admire the loyal support given to Reed by the Republicans of Maine and to McKinley by the 'Buckeyes' and to Allison by the people of his state, and I would like to see the party in Pennsylvania heartily enthusiastic for her candidate. Personal disagreements and local jealousies should be lost sight of in the great pride of the possible opportunity to have a citizen of our own state fill the presidential chair. Whoever is nominated, Pennsylvania will give the successfull man the largest majority of any state. Our people, our industeries, our wage earners, our hope for returning prosperity stand for sound money and the American idea. Senator Quay represents these as distinctly as any other American.

I believe the best interests of the party will be subserved by giving our candidate the same generous and loyal support which sister states are giving their champions, and I expect to see practically a united delegation at St. Louis, making a brave and determined effort to secure the nomination of Senator Quay."

W. L. Malin of Bellefonte, a personal friend of Gov. Hastings says that the delegates from Centre will be for Senator Quay. Mr. Malin was in the city this evening and talked freely about the action of the convention with regard to the McKinley resolution. "It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican gatherings ever held in this county," he said. "The story that the friends of Congressman Arnold bolted the convention is not true. The contest between General Reeder and Mr. Arnold for the indorsement by the convention for congress was spirited and exciting. But the best of feeling prevailed between the friends of the two candidates. The passage of the McKinley resolution was merely a compliment to the Ohian on account of his connection with the protection theory. He has many friends in the county; the same can be said of Senator Quay. The two delegates to the convention were not instructed for McKinley. They are uninstructed and will go into the convention and do everything in their power to help Senator Quay."

HUNTINGDON PRESBYTERY

What Was Done by The Ministers at Tyrone This Week.

INTERESTING SESSIONS HELD

Commissioners Elected—The Bellefonte Church Has Given $1,018 to the Million Dollar Fund Which is Twice as Much as Any Other Church.

For the benefit of the people of Bellefonte we reproduce the proceedings of the Huntingdon Presbyterv through the courtesy of the Tyrone Herald:

The Huntingdon Presbytery convened at the First Presbyterian church in this place at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. After the body was called to order the retiring moderator, Rev. H. H. Henry, of Birmingham, began the exercises by preaching the opening sermon. which is the duty of the retiring presiding officer by virtue of a long established custom. The topic of Mr. Henry's sermon was "Social Reform." It was an unusually lengthy discourse, but contained much useful and interesting matter on a subject that is not second to any other that is now prominent with the people throughout the country.

After Mr. Henry had concluded his sermon and lead in prayer, he announced the session of presbytery open for business, and was about to have the roll called, when Rev. J. W. Bain, D. D., of Altoona, rose and suggested that it would probably be well to understand why the presbytery is in session at Tyrone at this time, as when it last adjourned it was officially understood that the next meeting would be held at Bellefonte. Moderator Henry stated that the presbytery would go on with the making of the roll and reading of the minutes, and after that the query of Dr. Bain could be answered. The reason for presbytery meeting in Tyrone, however, is that since Bellefonte was selected for the present meeting, the Synod of Pennsylvania had decided to hold its session in 1896 at that place, and it not being convenient for the people there to entertain both in the same year an arrangement was effected to bring the presbytery to Tyrone.

After the roll call Tuesday afternoon, Rev. R. M. Campbell, of Port Royal, was elected moderator and Frank Reed, of Clearfield, recording clerk, by acclamation.

George A. Joplin, a graduate of Centre college, formerly teacher in the seminary at Hollidaysburg, and now a pastor assistant in the Third church, Pittsburg, and J. C. McCracken, a graduate of Washington and Jefferson college, and now a student in the Western seminary at Allegheny, were examined on experimental religion and their motives for seeking the ministry. Rev. H. G. Furbay. Ph. D. made report for the committee of arrangements.

Rev. Alfred N. Raven was received after the usual examination as a member of the presbytery. Mr. Raven comes from the presbytery of Newton, New Jersey, and accepts a call from the Westminister church, at Mifflintown.

Rev. Leander M. Lewis was received from the presbytery of Pittsburg and he has accepted a call from the churches of Sinking Valley and Lower Spruce Creek.

Lick Run, Bald Eagle and Buffalo Run presented calls for the pastoral service of Rev. M. Jones which he will accept, if his letter of dismissal arrives in time. The church of Milroy presented a call for Rev. David T. Neeley. Rev. Mr. Davis received calls from Spring Mills and Sinking Creek. A call for Rev. Mr. Dennison from State College, was also read. These were retained in the hand of presbytery. The moderator appointed the following committee:

Bills and Overtures—Rev H H Henry, Rev W H Decker, Rev Emil Lewey, Elder J W Wilson, Elder T B Reed.

Judicial—Rev R M Wallace, D D, Rev J C Kelley, Rev S A Davenport, Elder G W Wilson, Elder J C Mann.

Minutes of Synod—Rev J C Kelley. Rev A K Parker, Elder D M Thompson.

Leave of Absence—Rev G W Finney, Rev D L Hepley, Elder R A Priderux.

On Obituary—

Rev S M Moore, Rev H G Fubay, Ph D Rev J W Bain, Elder J C Weaver.

Rev John C Barr, Rev D H Barron. D D, Rev J C Relley, Elder N A Laird.

Rev William Prideaux Rev D K Freeman, D D, Rev J H Maher, D D, Elder J Crawford Irvine.

The evening session was given almost wholly to Rev H H Stiles of the second Altona church, who delivered a sermon on the subject of missions. Sin is sin no matter where it exists and christian people are obliged to supress it in heathen lands as well as home. During the course of Mr. Stiles' remarks he took occasion to criticise the English speaking civilized nations for their rude treatment of the Mongolians. He spoke of Japan's rapid advancement in christianity, where churches are found in all sections of the country, and drew a comparison as to the cost of killing an Indian by the method of war, and civilizing him by the method of christianity, the cost being the greater for the killing as five to one. His statement of the rapid advance of christianity was specially interesting, and he produced an argument for investing money in mission work for commercial advantages without considering the extension of christianity into heathen lands. The sermon was well conceived, presented many new thoughts and was very interesting.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.

All the members of the presbytery who are likely to be in attendance had arrived by this morning. Following is a list of the pastors present out of a total of 58 in the presbytery: Rev R M Wallace D D, J H Mathers, D D, R F Wilson, D H Barron, D D, N A Arnold, H G Finney, J W Bain D D, D K Freeman D D, George Chapbell, James P Hughes, J C Kelley, Wm. Laurie, D D, R M Campbell, W C Kuhn, Andrew H Parker, J F Diener, Silas A Davenport, Sylvester S Bergen, E H Mateer, R C Williams, David H Campbell, William E Stewart, J A McDonald, H H Henry H F Means, W H Schuyler, Ph. D., James E Irvine, W H Decker, S T Lewis, Emil Lewy, H N Campbell H H Stiles, William Gibb. J J E Giffen, Harvey Graeme Furbay Ph. D., W G Finney, George B Troub, S W Young, D E Craighead, H S Welty D E Kepler, L M Lewis and A N Raven. In addition to the pastor one elder from each church is entitled to a seat in presbytery. There are forty-eight elders present.

The Wednesday mornigg session was opened by devotional exercises for half an hour, led by Rev. R. M. Wallace, D. D.,

The minutes of the work of the previous day were read by the clerk, and after some corrections were approved. Before proceeding with the regular schedule as arranged yesterday, the moderator asked the presbytery whether one of its members should be appointed to deliver an ordination sermon this evening. It was decided in the affirmative and Rev. W. H. Decker, of Lewistown, was appointed and will deliver the sermon this evening in connection with the ordination service.

George O. Jophlin and J. O. C. McCracken were then examined for license to preach, and David T. Neeley and McLain White Davis for ordination, by Dr. Wallace and others of the committee appointed for the purpose. The young men were all prompt with their answers to questions which covered a large scope and proved that they have been close students in the line of preparation for the calling which they have chosen.

The statistical reports from the various churches throughout the presbytery were read by pastors or elders, showing a healthy condition of things everywhere the pastors' salaries being paid promptly, the membership on the increase, church boards well sustained, ect.

On motion of Dr. Furbay, the Rev. H Lincoln Jacobs of Central Pennsylvania conference of the M E church and pastor of the first M E church of Tyrone, was invited to sit as a corresponding member. Mr. Jacobs was personally introduced to the moderator and received with a bow by the Presbytery.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The first business of the afternoon was to select a place for the next meeting of the Presbytery. The churches of upper Tuscarora, Logan Valley, (Bellwood) and Arvona asked for the honor. Before taking a vote, however, Dr. Mahers withdrew the name of Bellwood. Upper Tuscarora was selected by a vote of 51 against 16 for Arvona.

The following trustees for the Presbytery were elected; Rev R S Wilson, for one year Rev. J C Kelley, for two years. William Dorris, Esq., for three years, Hon. A S Landis for four years, and Gen. James A Beaver, for five years.

As we go to press the Presbytery is holding an election for delegates and alternates to the next general assembly in which it will be represented by three ministers and three elders. The ministerial delegates will likely be Revs. E H Mateers S A Davenport and Emil Lewey, with Dr. Freeman and Revs. R F Wilson and A S Lewis as alternates. The election of elders will immediately follow that of the preachers.

A letter from Rev. Thomas Clatchen was read, just before noon, resigning his position as pastor of the Winburn and Kylertown churches. A black sheep is occasionally found even in the ministerial flock. It seems that Mr. Clatchy scented trouble ahead of him on account of switching from the path of true piety, and took occasion to unceremoniously desert his post before the enemy had him completely surrounded. He left between two days as it were in January and has not been heard of since, except that he is supposed to be in his native contry. For some wise reason action on the letter was deferred until a later business session of the Presbytery, but it is probable that the name of Mr. Clatchey will simply be stricken from the roll of ministers of the Presbytery, which amounts to expulsion from the privilages of the pulpit.

The services in connection with the ordination of Revs. D T Neeley, and McLain W Davis, at 7.30 o'clock this evening, will be unusual for a Tyrone audience to witness as well as interesting.

RIFLE PRACTICE RULES.

National Guardsmen Must Learn to Shoot Straight.

Harrisburg, April 8.—The season for rifle practice this year will begin May 1, and close October 31, according to orders issued from the adjutant general's office to-day. Practice will be required of officers and enlisted men, and no commutation for rifle range will be allowed any company that does not practice its entire membership.

Sighting and aiming drills, as prescribed in Blunt's firing regulations, should be given recruits in the armory before they are sent on the range, as much time and ammunition is wasted on the range by new men. Company commanders will be required at the end of the rifle practice season, to prefer charges for neglect of duty against every man who has failed to present himself at the range for practice, and against those who fail to qualify after having qualified in any previous year. Any man who shall have practiced and made an honest effort to qualify without success, shall be discharged for inefficiency, unless retained by the regimental commander because of special efficiency in some other line of duty. If any company in the infantry or cavalry arms of the service fails to qualify as marksmen 75 per cent, of its entire membership, unless satisfactory reasons are shown for such failure, it shall be considered so lacking in efficiency as to warrant its disbandment.

New Pension Decision.

Rulings of the last administration are reversed in a decision rendered by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Reynolds in a pension case having a bearing favorable to a large number of claims now on file.

The ruling holds that where a widow and minor children under sixteen years of age survive a soldier the children may after attaining the age sixteen and where the death of the mother occurs, thereafter without payment to her to any part of the pension, apply to their own right and receive the same pension as the father would have been entitled to had he been totally disabled. The pension is to commence from the date of his death and continue until they respectively arrive the age of sixteen years. This holding entitles those whose rights to apply did not accrue until after they had passed their sixteenth year, to be pensioned as though their rights had accrued while under the age of sixteen, as held by the department, a year ago, and hence not subject to any litigation.

Pittsburg's Steel Trade Will Boom.

Philadelphia, April 8.—George A. Harwood, senior member of the Pennsylvania Lubricating company, of Pittsburg, is in Philadelphia at present. Mr. Harwood is in constant contact with all that pertains to the great commercial industry of the Smoky City—the iron business—and when he expresses his views upon it they may be taken almost as coming from representative manufacturers of iron and steel.

"From what I can learn," said Mr. Harwood to-day, "it looks as though this would be one of the biggest years that Pittsburg has ever experienced in the steel industry. There are few, if any, existing labor troubles pending and this in itself is a factor that must be taken as indicative of the magnitude of the output for the coming year.

"On the other hand the manufacturers are making preparations to compete with every market in the world.

"The interior trade is also very heavy and the government is a big customer.

"What will be the effect of the big agreement entered into between the representative steel manufacturers a few days ago? Why, it will have the effect of more uniformity in the running of mills in this country; will stimulate friendly competition in all big advertised work, and will give the employes more work."

Kidney Trouble Cured.

The importance of knowing just what to do when one is afflicted with kidney disease or troubles of a urinary nature, is best answered by the following letter which was recently published in the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., News-Press:

Millertown, Dutchess Co., N.Y.

"Dr. David Kennedy, Dear Sir:—For more than eighteen months I was so badly afflicted with kidney trouble I could scarcely walk a quarter of a mile without almost fainting. I did not gain any until I began to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After using the first bottle I noticed a decided improvement which continued, and I know that

He rubbed his hands together gleefully "Well, I'm winner on that last deal," he said.

"Good," returned the broker. "I told you that you ought to sell, and you didn't seem to believe me at the time. When did you let it go?"

"I didn't let it go," replied the amateur specrlator. "I have it yet."

"Have it yet!" cried the broker in astonishment. "Why great mackeral! It's only 56 now."

"I know it," returned the speculator complacently.

"And when I told you to sell it was 116.

"That's right."

"Then I can't see how you make yourself out the winner."

"That's because you don't know me as well as I know myself. I've got the stock now, havn't I?"

"Yes."

"And it's worth 56?"

"Yes."

"Well then I'm just that much ahead. I tell you I was tempted to sell when it was 116, but I was able to resist the temptation."

"But if you had sold, think what you would have now."

"Not a cent," returned the speculator promptly. I would have started out to celebrate, and it would have gone in 24 hours. I would be broke now. Oh, I know when I'm a winner."—Washington Post.

Harry Wright's Day.

New York, April 15.—To-morrow is to be Harry Wright's day and it will be celebrated in all the large base ball cities in the country. A game that attracted a great deal of attention is one that is scheduled to be played at Rockford, Ill., the home of the old Forest cities, and many of the old players have promised that they will take part in it. Mr. A. S. Spalding, who made his appearence on the Forest City nine, has agreed to pitch. Several other old-timers who were in harness in the sixties will be there also, among them Al Pratt, of Pittsburg; George Wright, of the old Boston Athletics, and Ross Barnes.

Tired people are tired because they have exausted their strength. The only way for them to get strong is to eat proper food.

But eating is not all. Strength comes from food after digestion. Digestion is made easy with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

People who get to tired die. Life is strength. Food is the maker of strength. Food is not food until it is digested.

Tired, pale, thin, exhausted, sick sufferers from indigestion, can be cured by the use of Shaker Digestive Cordial.

It will revive their spent energies, refresh and invigorate them, create new courage, endurance and strength all by helping their stomachs to digest their food.

It aids nature, and this is the best of it. It gives immediate relief and, with perseverence, permanently cures.

Sold by druggists. Trial bottle 10 cents.

Cured by Baco-Curo and Gained Thirty Pounds.

From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of whice are on the file and open to inspection the following is presented.

Clayton, Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1895.

Eureka Chemical & Mfg., Co., La Crosse Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the nabit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of the body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition.

Yours respectfully, P. H. MARBURY.

Pastor C. P. Church, Clayton, Ark:

Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per box; three boxes, (thirty days' treatment) $2.50 with iron clad, written guarantee. or sent direct upon receipt of price. Write for booklet and proofs. Eureka Chemical & Mfg. Co., La CrosseWis., and Boston Mass.

Men and Their Hats.

"Well, well," remarked a leading hatter the other day, "everybody has smiled at the vanity of women as they take long and fond glances at their reflections in the store windows, but woman is not a marker for the ordinary man. The uglier a man is the longer it takes to suit himself with a hat and the oftener does he look into the glass while buying one. I have an nusually prepossessing customer who would exhaust the patience of a Job. He came into the store the day after the styles arrived and consumed two hours and ten minutes in getting a hat that pleased him. The next day he returned the hat and had one made to order. This man is so ugly that nothing could improve his looks but a mask."—Philadelphia Record.

Arbor Day.

One Arbor day has gone by and no pretence was made to plant trees or do anything that would go towards beautifying our town.

Of this we make no complaint as Friday the 24th day of April is also set a part by the Governor of the Commonwealth as one day on which all the people of the Commonwealth are called upon to engage in planting trees.

It seems to us the schools and the town Council might work together in this matter. The street commissioner should dig the holes and furnish good earth and clean away the rubbish if the schools would furnish the trees and assist in planting.

As to how trees should be planted and cared for we make a clipping from an Arbor day address of Hon. Charles M. Loring.

The holes into which the tree is to be placed should be 6 feet in diameter, 3 to 5 feet in depth and filled to within two feet of the surface with good, rich loam, leaving a mound to the center on which to set the roots. The roots of the tree should slope downward rather than with the ends higher than at the point where they leave the tree, as I have often seen them. They should be smoothly trimmed with a sharp knife where the ends have been broken in digging and protected from the sun and wind by damp straw or covered with loose earth until planted. The tree should be held in place at the depth at which it grew and the roots spread as evenly as possible in the hole. Then good rich loam should be carefully and firmly worked among them until they are covered. The hole, after being filled should be covered with heavy mulching.

The trunks of all trees with smooth bark should be protected from the rays of the sun. In fact, all trees recently transplanted do better if protected. Straw rope wound around the tree is the best protection, but the wooden guard is much better than nothing. All trees planted on the street should be protected by the guard to save them from injury from the teeth of biting animals. The guards are inexpensive and are worth ten times their cost. When the tree begins to grow it should be very carefully watched, and if the season is dry it should be watered. Do not sprinkle a little water over the surface of the ground every day. That brings the fine roots to the surface, where they will soon dry up, but give them a thorough soaking once in two weeks. By observing these rules the work done on Arbor day will bring lasting satisfaction to the tree planters while living and blessings upon their heads by the generations who follow them. If these directions are followed trees in being transplated will never die.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F.J.Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Tramp Cries.

It was simply an every day incident of city life, but it attracted the attention of one passer by.

The many pupils of one of the district schools were romping in the playing ground nothing distracting their attention from the sport, but from without a tramp, a man, with ragged coat and unkempt appearance, was peering through the iron palings.

Nothing was said, but when the children were called back to work, he turned away brushing a tear from his sodden face with his ragged sleeve. An ordinary incident but one with pages of history behind it.—Cincinnatti Commercial Gazette.

A State Sanitary Convention.

Williamsport, Pa., April 12.—An snitary committee under the auspices of the State Board of Health, will be held here May 21 and 22. Papers on all the subjects connected with health conditions will be read by eminent specialists. George G. Groff, of Lewisburg, is chairman of the Committee of Arrangements.

EUROPEAN LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

ROME, ITALY, March 8, 1896

Our stay in Rome has been extremely pleasant and profitable.

Now I want to mention what we have seen during the last week. The Capitol, the Aventine, the Pantheon, Paul's prison, the Knights' Stables, the Jesuit Church of St. Ignazio and Gesu, one of the most gorgeous churches in Rome.

On Sunday we went to the Villa Borghese, where they had fitted up the bed of what was formerly a large lake as a race course and were having horse and chariot races there witnessed by thousands of people. It seemed strange to me to pay admission and attend this performance of a wild west order (excepting of course, the chariot races) on a Sunday afternoon. But it was for the benefit of the wounded in Africa. A thousand more soldiers left here last week for Africa,—to recruit the the ranks of the wounded. They departed amid bursts of martial music and great enthusiasm. But the sensitive ear detected many minor notes. They came from the broken hearts of mothers, wives and sisters who were embracing the loved ones they might never again see. Oh, it was terribly sad. It makes me boil with indignation when I think on what trivial pretexts nations that call themselves civilized, resort to war. I admire England for the pacific attitude she took in our recent little wrangle. She kept a level head. Until a man is ready to enlist in the first volunteer regiment, it does not become him to blow about war.

On the Aventine we saw a very handsome new monastery, a vista opening upon St. Peters, and St Sabina, an old church dating from the early fifth century. Here we were followed around by an old Franciscan monk who took us into the monastery gardens and gave us flowers. This reminds me that in Rome there are as many uniformed and official as unofficial beggars. The former class keep little gates and doors locked on public highways or in buildings, which the visitor has a perfect right to enter free of charge. But not so, rule these beggars in brass buttons. They appoint themselves Custodian of the Key, and you must ring and wait on their officious service. They bow around and make a great pretense of assistance. Once away from them you are confronted by the deformed and wretched looking beggars at every church door who often project themselves in front of you and all but catch hold of your sleeve. If you refuse them, maledictions are hurled at you. This is one of the very disagreeable features of European travel. I shall never forget a beggar, this time in the garb of a priest, whom we encountered in the great Cathedral of Seville. He asked for money in every way but in words. I did not mind this so much as I did his face. It was the most voluptuous, repugnant face I have ever seen. Alas; that his lips have ever taken the vows of holy church. He might grace the Bowery, but his physical make up was suggestive of every thing but sanctity.

On Thursday we went to the King's stables, where Paul was greatly delighted with the 150 horses. They were pleasing to look at, fine, fat, sleek, intelligent looking fellows, with nothing to do but contemplate their fortunate, or unfortunate, lot in life; for they looked like they longed for an outing and would gladly exchange places with the cab horses on the highway if only they could get sunshine and exercise. Meanwhile, doubtless, their weary cab brothers long to step into their shoes. All of which goes to prove that happiness is relative and that horses, like men, are slaves to imagination.

At the Capitol we saw the Municipa Council rooms, busts of the King and the Prince of Naples, a beautiful statue of Cleopatra by a Roman sculptor, and a number of other pictures, all historical.

Near the capitol we went into an old building and down narrow winding stairs into a dungeon which is believed to be the identical one in which Paul was confined.

Walking along the street the other day I saw a crowd collected in front of a house and looking up, I thought, at it. A nearer approach showed the house to be a Catholic school or home for young girls. They were leaning over the high balconies in pure white garments which seemed to differ in no respect from les robes du nuit. Strange, I thought, that a strict institution should permit its inmates to appear in their night dresses at the windows as to attract a crowd of people. But I soon discovered that a funeral service was taking place in a house on the opposite side of the street and that the girls were entirely proper in appearing in their seminary uniform.

Trade Review.

New York, April 10.—R. G. Dun & Co. will say to-morrow in their weekly review of trade: Failures for the past week have been 209 in the United States against 207 last year, and 33 in Canada against 27 last year.

The volume of business has not on the whole increased, nor have prices appreciably advanced since April 1, when the range for all commodities was the lowest ever known in this country. Breadstufis and iron products have risen slightly, but some other articles have declined, and the root of the matter is that demand for consumption is still below expectations.

The injury done to winter wheat by storms and frosts at the West would appear from reports of state officers to have been considerable. Remarkably low estimates of condition are published by some state authorities, and, while there may be the customary exaggerations, there has evidently been much actual loss, which tends at present to lessen purchases of farmers and of dealers in farming districts. But the reports are not more gloomy than a year ago, and the quantity of wheat which has come from farms since August has been 163,781,594 bushels, against 129,075,450 to the same date last year.

Stocks have been extremely dull, and yet railroad traffic is heavy. Reports of earnings have not improved; the March statement, covering practically all the roads usually reporting, shows an increase of 4.2 per cent. over last year, but a decrease of 11.2 compared with 1893, and is less satisfactory than returns of January or February. Domestic business reflected by clearing house exchanges continues about 20 per cent. smaller than in 1893, though slightly better than last year, the occurrence of Good Friday preventing exact comparison. Foreign trade shows a decrease of nearly 10 per cent. In exports for the week, though as much increase in March, while imports gain nearly 20 per cent., though in March the decrease was 14 per cent.

The billet pool and other combinations have raised the prices in pig iron and steel, but as yet finished products have gained scarcely anything, nor has demand for them increased. The output April 1 was 190,281 tons weekly against 189,582 March 1, but reported stocks unsold increased 58,108 tons in March, or 12,132 weekly, and there is besides the unknown accumulation of the great steel concerns. Prices for lake ore are announced, as expected, $1.10 higher than last year, and the coke combination makes no reduction, but gradually lessens output. While purchases of pig iron to anticipate future wants have been heavy, actual consumption is but moderate. Minor metals are dull, but lead weaker at 3.05 cents on forced sales west.

Prices of boots and shoes do not change though leather is lower.

Must Obey the Law.

Patriot: The efforts of the commissioners of Chester, Delaware and several other counties in the state to evade the compulsory education act by refusing to pay the assessor for making the enumeration of school children will not avail. Deputy Attorney General Elkin gave Dr. Schaeffer, superintendent of public inspection, an opinion yesterday in which he holds that counties are liable to pay the district assessors and that it is the duty of the assessors to make the enumeration in accordance with the provisions of the law.

The commissioners of a few counties have taken the position that the county is not liable for the daily compensation of the assessors in making this enumeration for the reason that the county shall pay them. Mr. Elkin's decision assures an early school census of the state and may induce the commissioners who have refused to pay the assessors to change their minds.

Representative Farr, of Lackawanna, author of the law, was in Harrisburg yesterday and had a conference with Mr. Elkins on the subject. Mr. Farr says the people of the state demand a speedy enforcement of the law. The compulsory education bills introduced by him in the session of 1891 and '93 and vetoed by ex-Governor Pattison were indentical with the present law in so far as it relates to the pay of assessors for the enumeration of school children.

Still Bears the Wounds.

John Craig of Julian was a genial visitor to our city to-day and while here took time to pay his respects to THE REPUBLICAN office. Mr. Craig is an old soldier and is one of Julian's most respected citizens. He was wounded on August 13th, 1864, in the battle of Deep Bottom, seven miles from Richmond. His regiment was marched in the hot sun at double-quick time and many were they who fell exhausted never to rise again. He was wounded in the right ankle and bears the wound to this day. At the time of the battle the days were so hot and the nights so extremely cold that after he was wounded he came nearly freezing to death at night. One of the Sanitary Commission happening to come along gave him a blanket and a drink of brandy, and to this he attributes his escape from being frozen to death. There were about twelve men injured with the same shell that wounded Mr. Craig.

IN NICK OF TIME.

A Scranton Citizen is Fortunate—A Point of Public Interest.

In every-day life we all do things in "Nick of Time. Of course, these "narrow shaves" don't tend to lengthen life, and still 'tis better that way than to fail. Our representative called at No. 210 Mifflin avenue and Mrs. M. E. Wolfe, who resides there, told him in the course of conversation, that she had been suffering from kidney complaint, taking the form of sharp, piercing pains in the back, shooting like a knife thrust in the small of the back whenever she stooped or lifted anything. Sometimes it was only a catch, as it were, that lasted for a minute, then there were headaches that were very severe. Urinary troubles existed as well, and it was necessary on this account to rise during the night, thus breaking the natural rest. These symptoms, when in a moderate way, might be called annoyances, but if they are neglected for any length of time the consequences assume a serious nature. This is demonstrated in the case of Mrs. Wolfe, for her heart became affected and did not act properly. Kidney troubles produce dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and many other complications; dropsical conditions produce a pressure on the heart from the unnatural accumulation of water, and everyone knows that when the heart's action is interfered with 'tis a serious matter. So thought Mrs. Wolfe, and hearing of the "little wonder worker," Doan's Kidney Pills, she began taking them, and "Just in the nick of time, too." The results obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills were just the same as everywhere they have been used. Mrs. Wolfe says the pain, trouble and annoyances have entirely left her, and she is pleased to inform others what to use for kidney disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Foster-Milburn Co., sole agents for the U. S., Buffalo, N. Y.

Leighton's Generosity.

The following story is characteristic of Lord Leighton's kindness to poor students; A young fellow without friends or money came to London to make his fortune with his brush. Orders for pictures were not forthcoming, however, and the young painter found himself reduced to dining on sunset effects. In despair he wrote to the president of the academy at his private address in Holland Park, stating his case, and forwarding at the same time some specimans of his work. Within a few days he received an answer, asking him to call at Sir Fredrick's house. The president of the academy received him kindly, advised him to study more and gave him two letters of introduction. As the young man was leaving Sir Fredrick handed him an envelope, remarking: "Here is an example of the best kind o drawing. No doubt one of these dayf you'll be able to do as well, if not better." It contained a check for £25. The recipient is a long way up the ladder now.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, April 11, 1896.

Affairs in Wall street remain quiet. Money is returning from its temporary transfer to the country for April settlements, but the expected benefit from that source has not yet appeared. Several minor occurrences appear to have contributed to the postponment of operations. The wild fluctuations in tobacco stocks have produced an unsettled feeling. The reports of the commercial agencies, for the first quarter of 1896, make an unexpectedly unfavorable exhibit, with the effect of encouraging the pessimistic feeling entertained in some quarters. The London market has been dull, and its operations have, on the whole, been unfavorable to New York. The still unsettled condition of European politics also continues to hold in check foreign operations in our securities. The renewal of exports of gold has contributed its quota towards discouraging buying transactions. Those shipments, it is true, are not a surprise, for they are natural to the season; but, under the existing currency derangements they have an effect which was not felt in normal times; for they mean the locking-up of legal tenders in the Treasury, which have already accumulated to $112,000,000, with a certainty that the sum will be materially increased before the Spring exports of specie cease. Also, the relations between Washington and Madrid have a tendency to produce timidity in financial operations. The Cuban resolutions passed this week by such large majorities in both houses of Congress, it is true, have no other force than a declaration of sentiment. They cannot compel action by the Administration; and they were doubtless intended mainly for effect in politics; but it is impossible to say whether the President may regard it as a duty to his party to take action from a like party motive. The Venezuela episode is evidence that the President is capable of bold action when he thinks his party is menaced. In any event, when nine-tenths of a legislature declare themselves in such terms as were uttered in the Cuba resolutions of last Monday, the country against which such a protest is made cannot but regard it as contributing to animosities between the two nations concerned. Contingencies like these are, for the time being, calculated to unsettle confidence in the financial markets. And, again, although strong hopes are entertained that the Venezuela trouble will be amicably settled, yet the shadow of disturbing possibilities still hangs over that sensitive question.

This is the group of unsettling contingencies that at the moment supplies reasons for hesitation and postponment in Wall street operations. None of the factors is in a really threatening shape. The probabilities are that each one will disappear without a trace of bad consequences. Nevertheless, a speculative imagination, when in sober mood, is very conservative and demands large odds against a series of contingencies suggestive of caution. It would be difficult to say just how much weight Wall street really attaches to this momentary set of conditions. Certain it is that, while they suffice to prevent buying for the moment, yet they do not cause selling among the large holders of stocks, nor even sensibly disturb their confidence; nor do even the professional "bears" seem to view the situation as warranting any free selling of staple securities, but confine their selling mainly to sensational stocks.

Among men of financial status, the feeling is very general that the substantial condition affecting railroad investments are sound and healthy and that measured from that point of view, stocks are cheap at present prices. It so happens however, that in secondary and outside factors there are so many things out of joint as to call for an unusual margin of allowance for possible accidents and unforseen outcome. That is now the point of weakness in Wall Street: and until there is a clearing up of these numerous small causes of distrust, a real and large recovery in the financial market must be patiently waited for.

It is gratifying to find that Senator Teller can so far detach himself from this exclusive absorption in the free coinage question as to remember that we have such institutions as Nationals banks. The Senator has made the discovery that the county banks are wont to keep considerable deposits with there correspondent banks at New York; with the result, as he thinks, of depriving their customers of needed accommodations and making their means available for speculation in Wall Street. He informs the Senate that "last September $200,000,000 of this outside money was tied up in New York" and that 75 per cent of that amount was "used in speculation." Had he possessed the statistical equipment which benefits a Senator he would have been aware that the Comptroller of the Currency reports the cash reverses in the New York National banks, on the 28th of last September, at $125,5000,000: and he would have been further aware that $110,400,000 of that sum was required for the lawful reverse of our city banks; leaving but $12,1000,000 which could conceivable be accredited to the deposits of country banks about which he shows so much concern. Instead therefore of $150,000,000 of country money being used here for speculation, there could not possibly have been more than one-tenth of that amount, even supposing our banks to have carried, on their own account, no surplus or reverse over the legal requirements. The Senator may thus see, after making out the dross of exaggerate from his statement what is the remaining modicum of fine silver in his story. If the Senator knew as much about finance as his exhaustive disquisitions about silver would lead us to expect, he would long since have been aware that it has always been the usage, as between the metropolitan banks and the country banks, for the latter to deposit with the former at a certain season of the year and to borrow from them at another season. During certain months, the country banks cannot find use for all their resorces and therefore are glad to deposit the idle surplus with their correspondents at New York, Chicago or St. Louis, at a low rate of interest, rather than keep them unproductive and at loss of interest: and during other months, they not only withdrew those deposits, but also got large sums of currency from their metropolitan correspondents through discounts or against paper collateral. Thus both classes of banks reciprocally receive accommodation and pay a just rate for it; and the rural public and the metroplitan public receive accomodation in turn, neither one at the expense of the other. As to the loans made for speculative purposes on the Stock Exchange it is impossible to so isolate them from the general operations of the banks as to ascertain their amount.

Budding time—the time when girlhood blossoms into womanhood—is a trying period in every woman's life. Much depends on the care and the treatment given then—a lifetime of healthy happiness, or years of suffering sickness.

To bring girls safely through this critical period, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been found an unfailing aid. It is a preparation of strongly tonic properties. It puts the whole body into good condition and is particularly efficacious in its action on the peculiarly feminine organism. There is no sort of female trouble that it will not correct if it is taken in time. Thousands of the worst possible cases have been cured by it. It works in a perfectly natural way, and drives out disease by building up the strength and purifying the whole system.

Many modest women and girls suffer unspeakable torments because they dread telling their troubles to a physician. They fear the almost inevitable examinations and "local treatment." These things are usually wholly unnecessary.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do what not one doctor in a hundred can do—it will cure. In our 168 page book entitled "Woman and Her Diseases," are hundreds of testimonials to its wonderful efficacy.

The book will be sent free in plain envelope on receipt of this notice with ten cents to part pay postage.

Trouble Ahead For Patsy.

Corporal McCaffery was in a raging temper; that was plain, and he could hardly keep his forage cap at the proper angle of 45 degrees on account of the wrinkles in his forehead.

"What's up Dennis? Where's the fire?" asked an intimate friend as McCaffery bouced into the canteen.

Is it a foire, begorra, ye're naming? If Oi catches a-hould o' that Patrick McGlyn Oi'll make him wish himself by his foireside at Kilsillagan. Ye'll see if I don't just give a new coat of paint to those two black eyes o' his."

"What's he been doinng of, Dennis, me son?" said one of the boys.

"Oi'll just tell yez all. He knows as well that only last week Oi was gazitted corporal, and look yez here now, the spalpeen has sent me a litter 'To Dennis McCaffery' and marked it 'private,' the scoundrel! Oi'll let him know fwhat it is to insult the honor of a full blown 'offiser.' Oi'll show him 'private,' be jabers, if Oi don't.',

Robertsdale Coal Mines Flooded.

Huntingdon, Pa., April 13.—Work has been pratically suspended in one of the slopes of the Rockhill Iron and Coal company mines, at Robertsdale, on account of a rush of water. A large number o pumps have been called into use. The company has large coal orders for coa shipment at present.

THE Howard people were very much in evidence at Tuesday's county convention. Although in the minority, they weilded a power that carried conviction in its path. They fought bravely for Congressman Arnold and came within an ace of coming out victorious. The Howard people are not backward in coming forward and saying what they think and it is this feature that makes them desirable friends and dreaded enemies. They were but fair in their desires at the convention and although they were defeated they were not disheartened. They consoled themselves with the fact that their time will come to, and probably in the near future at that.

Not to Be Bluffed.

Charlie—Ten cents? Certainly.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 13, 1896.

Mr. Cleveland has paid sufficient deference to those Cuban resolutions to ask Spain to accept the mediation of the United States in negotiating with the Cuban insurgents for peace; but, according to current gossip, he doesn't wish Spain to agree and doesn't expect it. According to stories whispered in inside circles, the fine hand of Ex-Secretary Billy Whitney is playing the game for Mr. Cleveland, having succeeded in persuading him that the only salvation of the democratic party lies in working up feeling towards a war with Spain. The offer to mediate is made for the purpose of convincing the world that the administration favors a peaceable settlement and will only resort to other methods when Spain refuses to entertain mediation, and to gain time. War is not wanted now; it might be all over before the meeting of the democratic national convention, not to mention the November election. It is a deep game, to take advantage of the general sympathy of this country for Cuba to boost up the tottering democratic party, and to go into it it was necessary for Mr. Cleveland to go against his real wishes, as he had been from the first apparently on the side of Spain.

Unless something unexpected turns up to prevent, congress is likely to break the long session record in the date of adjournment. So far as the House is concerned, it would be easy enough to adjourn by May 1st, as there remain only two appropriation bills—the fortifications, and general dificiencies—to be disposed of, and the first of those will be passed this week. Unless the democratic senators become obstructionists just to delay adjournment, it is regarded as probable that adjournment will occur somewhere in the neighborhood of May 15th.

Senator Cullom denies very emphatically that he has written, or intends to write, a letter withdrawing his name as a candidate for the presidential nomination, and Senator Quay's friends make the same denial in his behalf.

Secretary Morton is in hot water again, and unless the men who are making the charges against him are out of their reckoning he may get badly scalded before he gets out of it. He and his assistants in the Agricultural department are charged with having deliberately and intentionally misrepresented facts to Senator Proctor and Representative Wadsworth, who acted with Secretary Morton as a committee to award the contract for seeds for free distribution, in order to get the bid of a Chicago firm, which was out. They charge that Secretary Morton represented that the seed submitted as samples by the Chicago firm were found poor, when as a matter of fact the official records of the tests made by the department experts showed them to be as good in every respect as those sent by the firm which secured the contract; that Secretary Morton told his Congressional associates on the Committee of Award that the Chicago firm declined to assume responsibility by printing their name upon the packages of seeds they proposed furnishing, when that firm had stated both orally and in writing that it would cut its bid $10,000 if allowed to print its name and address on every package. They charge further that Assistant Dabney worked against them because they refused to use a certain patent bag-filling machine advocated by him. It is a very serious business if these charges can be substantiated, and the men who make them say they can be.

Public Printer Benedict has had a collision with the Civil Service Commission concerning the eligibility for reinstatement of certain printers discharged by him after the Government Printing Office passed under the civil service rule, and the matter has got before the Senate Civil Service Committee. According to one of the witnesses before that committee, Benedict said to a member of Congress who called on him to secure the reinstatement of one of the dismissed printers, on the ground of the Civil Service Commission having declared him eligible for reinstatement without examination: "I don't care what these d—— wet nurses say." The committee will investigate and make a report.

Democrats are trying to persuade Senator Hill to once more become the democratic candidate for governor of New York, but Mr. Hill as such a vivid recollection of the drubbing administered to him by Gov. Morton that he isn't inclined to regard the matter at all favorably.

The House republicans held a caucus to exchange opinions on the two immigration bills now pending, one radically restricting immigration and the other slightly amending present laws. Owing to the difference of opinion among republicans it is regarded probable that the question will be allowed to go over to the next session.

THE Philipsburg delegates to the Republican County convention on Tuesday, are deserving of much credit for their admirable stand in trying to secure the indorsement of Hon. W. C. Arnold for Congress. Although the odds were greatly against them, yet they were game to the last and went down with their colors flying higher possibly than they were before the convention assembled.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Spring costumes: Gloves: Grass Linen Waists: Parasols:

Spring costumes present no striking changes, plain skirts and elaborately trimmed waists remaining in favor for all but the very lightest fabrics, which are not yet matters of great importance. Everything centres on the corsage front, although the back may be, and often is, trimmed to match. Lace, chine or Dresden silk, velvet, spangled net, or not unfrequently two of these potent factors make up the gay front now so imperative. Jacket fronts heighten this tendency, and will be extremely stylish for waists or outdoor garments, and a succession of fronts may be supplied at a reasonable expenditure by purchasing remnants, which if put together with skill and good taste, the result is surprising.

WHITE SATIN REVERS,

either spangled or bordered with Venetian lace, having gathered chiffon at the centre are very fashionable, and an ingenious idea is to have two or three revers which hook on the waist, and may be changed at pleasure. Nothing imparts a more stylish air than white satin on a black or colored velvet basque, which should have a short, "ripple back." Slightly-pointed or round waists remain popular; velvet belts are wide or narrow, and velvet folds finish the lower edge of many elegant waists. Black satin ribbon modifies the bright hues of chine silk costumes with excellent effect, as a belt, and bows at the shoulders. A few small sleeves are again shown, but no one ventures to express any decided opinion as to the future.

A HANDSOME GLOVE

gives the finishing touch to a costume, and for Easter wear, suede is the favored material, coming in pearl gray, tan or brown, pique sewn (lapped seams), with minature arrows in black stitching. Gloves no longer match costumes, but are in contrast, and five or six pale yellow shades, called the ficelle tints, take precedence of all others. A novelty in silk gloves, "The Formosa," a doubly woven, finger-tipped glove, seen in Lord & Taylor's wholesale department, is areal benediction to persons whose hands perspire, and is shown of pure silk, taffeta and Lisle thread, in tans, black, modes, slates or white. The advantage this glove has over all others is that the finger tips are actually spliced double, and are to a glove what the double heel and toe are to a stocking. The "Victoria" cycling glove is something entirely new, made of suede Lisle thread, with silk fourchettes, and gauntlets of similar style and make, serve the same purpose.

FOUR BUTTON TAFFETA, or pure silk gloves, in tan, slate or black, are also in great demand, and it should be borne in mind that four chetts is the part of the glove which comes between the fingers, are unequalled in point of durability, and a suede Lisle thread glove, with kid, palm and silk four-chettes, is considered very desirable, as the fourchettes do away with the heavy seams in the fingers, making them a comfortable and perfect fit. Another cycling glove has a perforate kid palm and open gussets, admitting the air; thus preventing perspiration, which is a very advantageous feature. Most of these styles fasten with three horn buttons. White silk gloves with black embroidery on the backs are very stylish, and can be washed any number of times.

IN ADDITION to the varied styles of grass linens, described in previous letters, come the Madras and Persian patterns, which bring novelties will be very largely employed for waists. For street suits, however, preference will be given to navy blue and deep red, striped with white. Colored silk linings are again used with perforated batiste costomes or waists, and slightly worn silk will serve this purpose.

PARASOLS ARE SO GAY,

that great care should be exercised in the selection, as a hat covered with bright flowers, and a gaily-colored Dresdon silk parasol, would be in very loude taste. Some Dresdon silk parasols are in very delicate hues, lines of tiny springs on cream or white grounds. Then, again, they are so flaring, that a white hat showing just a touch of color, is most appropriate. Chine or brocaded silk parasols are also very bright, and simple white pongee parasols, with Venetian lace band around the edge, look well with gay hats. White chaffon parasols, trimmed with flowers, are so particularly attractive tha they will continue to adore garden parties, or outdoor fetes of every kind, and then fabrics, such as crepe de Chine, gauze or not lace, are plaited, gathered or ruffled on plain foundations.

Cured by Baco-Curo and Gained Thirty Pounds.

From hundreds of testimonials, the originals of whice are on the file and open to inspection the following is presented.

Clayton, Nevada Co., Ark., Jan. 28, 1895.

Eureka Chemical & Mfg., Co., La Crosse Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years of that time I was a great sufferer from general debility and heart disease. For fifteen years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chloride of Gold," etc., etc., but none of them did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the nabit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and am relieved from all the numerous aches and pains of the body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition.

Yours respectfully, P. H. MARBURY.

Men and Their Hats.

"Well, well," remarked a leading hatter the other day, "everybody has smiled at the vanity of women as they take long and fond glances at their reflections in the store windows, but woman is not a marker for the ordinary man. The uglier a man is the longer it takes to suit himself with a hat and the oftener does he look into the glass while buying one. I have an unusually prepossessing customer who would exhaust the patience of a Job. He came into the store the day after the styles arrived and consumed two hours and ten minutes in getting a hat that pleased him. The next day he returned the hat and had one made to order. This man is so ugly that nothing could improve his looks but a mask."—Philadelphia Record.

Arbor Day.

One Arbor day has gone by and no pretence was made to plant trees or do anything that would go towards beautifying our town.

Of this we make no complaint as Friday the 24th day of April is also set a part by the Governor of the Commonwealth as one day on which all the people of the Commonwealth are called upon to engage in planting trees.

It seems to us the schools and the town Council might work together in this matter. The street commissioner should dig the holes and furnish good earth and clean away the rubbish if the schools would furnish the trees and assist in planting.

As to how trees should be planted and cared for we make a clipping from an Arbor day address of Hon. Charles M. Loring.

The holes into which the tree is to be placed should be 6 feet in diameter, 3 to 5 feet in depth and filled to within two feet of the surface with good, rich loam, leaving a mound to the center on which to set the roots. The roots of the tree should slope downward rather than with the ends higher than at the point where they leave the tree, as I have often seen them. They should be smoothly trimmed with a sharp knife where the ends have been broken in digging and protected from the sun and wind by damp straw or covered with loose earth until planted. The tree should be held in place at the depth at which it grew and the roots spread as evenly as possible in the hole. Then good rich loam should be carefully and firmly worked among them until they are covered. The hole, after being filled should be covered with heavy mulching.

The trunks of all trees with smooth bark should be protected from the rays of the sun. In fact, all trees recently transplanted do better if protected. Straw rope wound around the tree is the best protection, but the wooden guard is much better than nothing. All trees planted on the street should be protected by the guard to save them from injury from the teeth of biting animals. The guards are inexpensive and are worth ten times their cost. When the tree begins to grow it should be very carefully watched, and if the season is dry it should be watered. Do not sprinkle a little water over the surface of the ground every day. That brings the fine roots to the surface, where they will soon dry up, but give them a thorough soaking once in two weeks. By observing these rules the work done on Arbor day will bring lasting satisfaction to the tree planters while living and blessings upon their heads by the generations who follow them. If these directions are followed trees in being transplated will never die.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

A Tramp Cries.

It was simply an every day incident of city life, but it attracted the attention of one passer by.

The many pupils of one of the district schools were romping in the playing ground nothing distracting their attention from the sport, but from without a tramp, a man, with ragged coat and unkempt appearance, was peering through the iron palings.

Nothing was said, but when the children were called back to work, he turned away brushing a tear from his sodden face with his ragged sleeve. An ordinary incident but one with pages of history behind it.—Cincinnatti Commercial Gazette.

EUROPEAN LETTER.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

ROME, ITALY, March 8, 1896

Our stay in Rome has been extremely pleasant and profitable.

Now I want to mention what we have seen during the last week. The Capitol, the Aventine, the Pantheon, Paul's prison, the Knights' Stables, the Jesuit Church of St. Ignazio and Gesu, one of the most gorgeous churches in Rome.

On Sunday we went to the Villa Borghese, where they had fitted up the bed of what was formerly a large lake as a race course and were having horse and chariot races there witnessed by thousands of people. It seemed strange to me to pay admission and attend this performance of a wild west order (excepting of course, the chariot races) on a Sunday afternoon. But it was for the benefit of the wounded in Africa. A thousand more soldiers left here last week for Africa,—to recruit the the ranks of the wounded. They departed amid bursts of martial music and great enthusiasm. But the sensitive ear detected many minor notes. They came from the broken hearts of mothers, wives and sisters who were embracing the loved ones they might never again see. Oh, it was terribly sad. It makes me boil with indignation when I think on what trivial pretexts nations that call themselves civilized, resort to war. I admire England for the pacific attitude she took in our recent little wrangle. She kept a level head. Until a man is ready to enlist in the first volunteer regiment, it does not become him to blow about war.

On the Aventine we saw a very handsome new monastery, a vista opening upon St. Peters, and St Sabina, an old church dating from the early fifth century. Here we were followed around by an old Franciscan monk who took us into the monastery gardens and gave us flowers. This reminds me that in Rome there are as many uniformed and official as unofficial beggars. The former class keep little gates and doors locked on public highways or in buildings, which the visitor has a perfect right to enter free of charge. But not so, rule these beggars in brass buttons. They appoint themselves Custodian of the Key, and you must ring and wait on their officious service. They bow around and make a great pretense of assistance. Once away from them you are confronted by the deformed and wretched looking beggars at every church door who often project themselves in front of you and all but catch hold of your sleeve. If you refuse them, maledictions are hurled at you. This is one of the very disagreeable features of European travel. I shall never forget a beggar, this time in the garb of a priest, whom we encountered in the great Cathedral of Seville. He asked for money in every way but in words. I did not mind this so much as I did his face. It was the most voluptuous, repugnant face I have ever seen. Alas; that his lips have ever taken the vows of holy church. He might grace the Bowery, but his physical make up was suggestive of every thing but sanctity.

On Thursday we went to the King's stables, where Paul was greatly delighted with the 150 horses. They were pleasing to look at, fine, fat, sleek, intelligent looking fellows, with nothing to do but contemplate their fortunate, or unfortunate, lot in life; for they looked like they longed for an outing and would gladly exchange places with the cab horses on the highway if only they could get sunshine and exercise. Meanwhile, doubtless, their weary cab brothers long to step into their shoes. All of which goes to prove that happiness is relative and that horses, like men, are slaves to imagination.

At the Capitol we saw the Municipa Council rooms, busts of the King and the Prince of Naples, a beautiful statue of Cleopatra by a Roman sculptor, and a number of other pictures, all historical.

Near the capitol we went into an old building and down narrow winding stairs into a dungeon which is believed to be the identical one in which Paul was confined.

Walking along the street the other day I saw a crowd collected in front of a house and looking up, I thought, at it. A nearer approach showed the house to be a Catholic school or home for young girls. They were leaning over the high balconies in pure white garments which seemed to differ in no respect from les robes du nuit. Strange, I thought, that a strict institution should permit its inmates to appear in their night dresses at the windows as to attract a crowd of people. But I soon discovered that a funeral service was taking place in a house on the opposite side of the street and that the girls were entirely proper in appearing in their seminary uniform.

Trade Review.

New York, April 10.—R. G. Dun & Co. will say to-morrow in their weekly review of trade: Failures for the past week have been 209 in the United States against 207 last year, and 33 in Canada against 27 last year.

The volume of business has not on the whole increased, nor have prices appreciably advanced since April 1, when the range for all commodities was the lowest ever known in this country. Breadstuffs and iron products have risen slightly, but some other articles have declined, and the root of the matter is that demand for consumption is still below expectations.

The injury done to winter wheat by storms and frosts at the West would appear from reports of state officers to have been considerable. Remarkably low estimates of condition are published by some state authorities, and, while there may be the customary exaggerations, there has evidently been much actual loss, which tends at present to lessen purchases of farmers and of dealers in farming districts. But the reports are not more gloomy than a year ago, and the quantity of wheat which has come from farms since August has been 163,781,594 bushels, against 129,075,450 to the same date last year.

Stocks have been extremely dull, and yet railroad traffic is heavy. Reports of earnings have not improved; the March statement, covering practically all the roads usually reporting, shows an increase of 4.2 per cent. over last year, but a decrease of 11.2 compared with 1893, and is less satisfactory than returns of January or February. Domestic business reflected by clearing house exchanges continues about 20 per cent. smaller than in 1893, though slightly better than last year, the occurrence of Good Friday preventing exact comparison. Foreign trade shows a decrease of nearly 10 per cent. in exports for the week, though as much increase in March, while imports gain nearly 20 per cent., though in March the decrease was 14 per cent.

The billet pool and other combinations have raised the prices in pig iron and steel, but as yet finished products have gained scarcely anything, nor has demand for them increased. The output April 1 was 190,281 tons weekly against 189,582 March 1, but reported stocks unsold increased 58,108 tons in March, or 12,132 weekly, and there is besides the unknown accumulation of the great steel concerns. Prices for lake ore are announced, as expected, $1.10 higher than last year, and the coke combination makes no reduction, but gradually lessens output. While purchases of pig iron to anticipate future wants have been heavy, actual consumption is but moderate. Minor metals are dull, but lead weaker at 3.05 cents on forced sales west.

Prices of boots and shoes do not change though leather is lower.

Fight at Pottsville.

Pottsville, Pa, April 14.—Last night's battle between the Italians and the Lithuanians at Shenandoah, which, in all probability, will result in the death of at least three persons, is the leading topic of discussion in that town to-night. The bitterest feeling exists between the two foreign elements and, should they come together again, a more fierce and bloody riot may be expected.

There is, however, no immediate danger of this taking place, but the excitement has increased since the death of Joseph Kofuski, which occurred at noon. His mother is still hovering between life and death. The Italian who was shot in the groin is also in a critical condition and cannot recover. The authorities up to this hour have failed to capture the three men who escaped last night. They are supposed to be hiding on the Ringtown mountain.

No Discrimination.

Miss Lucy (to her cook)—Really, Aunt Chloe, it is dreadful of old Ned to bring up his children so badly. He lets them steal right and left.

Aunt Chloe—Yes, Miss Lucy, dat's what I always say. Folks does very wrong to let dey chillen steal, 'cause chillen, dey ain't got no judgment. Dey don't know what to steal.—New York Journal.

April, May are most emphatically the months for taking a good blood purifier, because the system is now most in need of such a medicine, and because it more quickly responds to medicinal qualities. In winter impurities do not pass out of the body freely, but accumulate in the blood.

It was a Good Old Parasol.

A draper's assistant was showing a lady some parasols. The assistant had a good command of language and knew how to expatiate on the good qualities and show the bests points of goods. As he picked up a parasol from the lot on the counter and opened it he struck an attitude of admiration, and holding it up to the best light that could be had said:

"Now, there, isn't it loveley? Look at that silk. Particularly observe the quality, the finish, the general effect. Feel it. Pass your hand over it. Mo not sense about that parasol, is there?" he said as he handed it over to the lady. "Ain't it a beauty?"

"Yes," said the lady. "That's my old one. I just laid it down here.'—Liverpool Mercury.

The Mountaineer's Bear Team.

"I was driving along a road in the mountains of western North Carolina a short time ago," said P. B. Mayfield of St. Louis, "when I heard a wagon coming around a bend in the road. My horses shied, then began to tremble, being evidently in the most abject terror. I could not make them move a foot, and when the approaching team came into sight I saw the reason, and getting out of the buggy, succeeded in quieting my horses, so as to allow the strange team room to pass, the driver of the brutes ahead of me calling: They wont hurt nothing stranger. Don't be skeared.' He was driving a team of full grown black bears, and they were making about as fast a time as a yoke of oxen would. They were hitched to a wagon loaded with logs. The upper part of the wagon was like any other, but the wheels were small and heavy, evidently the work of a local blacksmith. The bears paid no attention to me or to my team and walked along leisurely, drawing their load seemingly without effort."—Washington Star.

Poor Indeed.

There are degrees and kinds of poverty, just as there are differences of opinion among those who compute and measure poverty and riches by different standards. Some men deem themselves poor because they are less rich than others, again there are comparatively poor people who are satisfied with a competence, There is a kind of poverty for which no wealth can compensate, namely, a poverty of bodily stamina, evinced by nervousness and a derangement of the functions of digestion, bilious secretion and the bowels. To restore vigor upon a permanent basis there is one remedy that fully covers the requirements, "fills the bill," and this is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. By restoring digestion, giving a healthful impulse to the action of the bowels and liver and tranquilizeing the nerves, it fulfills the condition necessary to a resumption of strength by the system. It also overcomes malaria and rheumatism.

A Peculiar Accident.

Lebanon, April 13.—Joseph G. Dougherty, of this city, was instantly killed at Sixth and Locust streets. He was driving a spirited horse, and while crossing a bad gutter he was thrown out of his carriage. The horse started to run away, and the carriage passed over Dougherty's head, crushing his skull.

Walter S. Bomberger, 15 years old, who was also in the carriage, was thrown out, and the horse fell on him. He was injured about the head, back and arm, but is not dangerously hurt.

An Honest Man's Story.

Greenville, Pa., January 23, '95.

Dear Sir:—Thank God there is a medicine that will cure catarrh. Mr. Pretzinger I used your sample box of catarrh cure which you sent me. May God bless you for your kindness. I used the little box you sent me and about half of a 50 cent jar. They keep it in Chambersburg. I have told a great many people about your medicine. Hon. Squire Britton brother in-law of mine, is useing it; he says it is helping him very much he has catarrh very bad. Mrs. G. D. Ludwig, daughter of me is useing your medicine. I use it in the evening before retiring to bed and am feeling better now than I have for the last five years. My head is clear and I have more energy for work and business. Before I used your medicine I felt many a time that I did not care whether I was living or dead; I had no energy; I did not care for anything. I had catarrh over 67 years; mother had catarrh and it turned into consumption; she died in her 64th year. Mr. Pretzinger I think it would pay you to have it put in all the Franklin County papers as I am a reliable, honest man so the people say, middling well acquainted over the county. Yours truly,
George K. Zollinger.

A small sample can be obtained by sending a 2c. stamp to Pretzinger Bros. Chemists, Dayton, Ohio.

A Society Event.

"Yes," observed the master of of ceremonies, "you weep to the jury beautifully, but let us again rehearse your glare at the defendant."

By dint of much drilling the affair passed off very creditably, and was one of the prettiest home events of the season.—Detroit Tribune.

A False Diagnosis.

La Grippe is confounded by many persons with a severe attack of catarrh, which in some respects resembles the former. These individuals suffer severe attack of catarrh, which in some respects resembles the former. These individuals suffer severely with pain about the forehead, ears, and eyes, with soarness in the throat and nasal passages, and in fact, are incapacitated for work of any kind for days at a time. These are catarhal sufferers. Ely's Cream Balm has been used with the best results in such cases. The remedy gives instant relief.

They Will Start on May 1st.

On Friday, May 1st, operations will be resumed at the Nail Works after an idleness of six years.

Considerable comment has been made during the past three weeks as to whether or not the plant would be put in operation but up to Thursday there was nothing definite known in connection with the matter.

Some time ago Mr. Henry Harris of Georgetown came to Bellefonte and examined the Nail Works plant, and to see what chance there was to put it into operation again. He found that it had been leased to the Nail Trust, and that before anything could be done the old lease had to be overcome. Mr. Harris, in connection with several of our citizens, went to work and, after some little difficulty, the old lease was done away with and then the works were in a condition ready to be started.

On Wednesday, April 1st, Mr. Harris returned to Bellefonte after a three days' trip to Harrisburg, having been called there on business connected with the old lease. He brought with him Messrs. M. J. Matthews of Buffalo, N. Y., and D. Frazer of Elmira, N. Y. These gentemen held a conference with some Bellefonte people and left this city the next day The matter then quieted down and many were inclined to believe that the deal had fallen through. Mr. Harris, however, stayed in Bellefonte, waiting to hear from the parties who were here to look up the matter with him.

A representative of the REPUBLICAN called on him several times but was unable to obtain any information on the subject. To-day, however, he again called on Mr. Harris and was told by that gentleman that the Nail Works Plant would be put into operation on the first of next month. When asked as to when he expected to commence making repairs and how many men he would start with, Mr. Harris replied "I expect to commence making repairs on Monday a week, or April 20, and will start the works with about ninety men." In reply to the question as to what he intends to manufacture, he said: "Carriage axles, buggy tires, horse shoe bars, bolts, nuts, rivets, washers, etc., will be the line of goods we will turn out." To the question as to whether or not he would be the manager of the plant, an answer in the affirmative was given.

Mr. Harris appears to be very confident of the success of the venture. The name of the firm which will control the works will be given later. The Nail Works were at one time a flourishing industry in Bellefonte, and it is to be hoped that its resumption of operations will restore to our city the good and prosperous times we enjoyed before the sweep of the panic.

[As to the above we have nothing to say. The public knows as much about this matter as we do. We have only given the bare statements as they were given to us by Mr. Harris himself. We hope they will materialize, but only time will determine that fact. We don't wish to publish anything that is not the sacred truth and in this matter we have strictly refrained from voicing a single opinion of our own.—ED.]

Do Texas Foxes Climb Trees?

A correspondent of a sportsman's paper declared recently, "There is little sport to be had in hunting foxes in Texas because they climb trees in 10 or 20 minutes after the dogs start them." The foxes in England are often driven to the trees by the eager dogs, but they do not climb in the sense that a bear or squirrel does. They jump to the lower branches of the trees and by their aid work themselves up to the top branches. A fox can get into a tree that is no higher than 8 feet to the lower branches, and it is probably by jumping that the Texas fox gets into the trees.

A Narrow Escape.

Jack, the little three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon, of North Allegheny street, met with an adventure on Thursday afternoon that might have cost him his life. How he escaped is a mystery that cannot be solved.

It seems that the little fellow had come up to his father's butcher shop after dinner on Thursday and about 2 o'clock started to go home. His father happening to look out on the street saw Mr. William C. Heinle driving a team of Baum's horses along the road in front of the Brockerhoff house. Mr. Lyon surmising that Mr. Heinle would drive up the alley by Lyon & Co's. store, went with his little son to see that he crossed the alley safely. But Jack was too full of life to walk along with his father and kept running along ahead. When they came to the alley by the Temple Court Mr. Heinle was just starting to drive up the alley. Before anybody dreamed of what he was going to do, Jack started to run across the crossing directly in front of the horses. In full view of the horror stricken spectators the little fellow was knocked down by the horses and fell squarely under them. The team was going so fast that before it could be stopped it with the buggy had passed over the little fellow who was lying on his back on the crossing. He was picked up and carried into his fathers' store where it was found that his left foot was badly bruised where one of the horses had stepped on it, but with this exception there wasn't a single mark on his body to show what he just passed through. He was taken home and an examination made and it was found that beyond a few bruises he was uninjured. He is now in bed nursing his foot but is getting along very nicely.

Langdon Was Discharged.

Philadelphia, April 9.—Samuel P. Langdon, who was recently held by the coroner to await the action of the grand jury charged with having caused the death of Annie McGrath, was this morning discharged from custody on an order signed by Judge Gordon in quarter session court No. 2.

About ten minutes after 11 o'clock District Attorney Graham appeared in court and at once addressed Judge Gordon, saying: "May it please your honor, I desire to ask attention to the case of the commonwealth against Samuel P. Langdon, committed by the coroner and held to answer for the murder of Annie McGrath. The case was returned to the district attorney's office on Monday of this week, and my assistant and myself have given it a great deal of consideration, and have thoroughly investigated the testimony at present available. As a result, I feel it my duty to state that the commonwealth is unable to show the cause of death, without which no prosecution could be carried on. In the absence of this evidence I feel that it is unjust to further hold the defendant in custody, and at the first opportunity come into court and ask for a noll pros. and release him from custody.

Mr. Graham then said he had prepared a formal paper, which he proceeded to read to the court. When he had finished reading, Attorney A. S. L. Shields, who with Arthur Moore, was present on behalf of the defendant, stated that he had no objection to the order as prepared by the district attorney, and would therefore withdraw the habeas corpus proceeding, which had been brought for the discharge of their client.

As soon as Langdon was released he walked over to the Girard building in company with his counsel, A. Moore and A. S. L. Shields. After leaving his overcoat in the former's office, Langdon went to lunch at a prominent hotel with several friends.

Mothers Influence.

Who can overestimate it? For good or evil it is far reaching. Her name, the first that falls from the lips of the prattling babe, is often the last whisper of the dying sage. God bless our mothers! How important then that they be shielded from those weakening diseases which too often wreck their constitutions and render them wearied, fretful invalids, prematurely aged and ambitionless. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done much to emancipate women from this thraldom and may be taken by the most delicate with absolute certainty of benefit. For nursing mothers and all debilitated, or run down women, it is the most effective restorative tonic to build them up. To those about to become mothers it is a priceless boon. It lessens the pains of childbirth, shorten labor, promotes the secretion of an abundance of nourishment for the child and shortens the period of confinement.

SHROM—INGRAM

A Pretty Wedding in this City Thursday Evening

East Lamb Street was quite a scene of a pleasant occasion on Thursday evening it being the wedding of Mr. George Ingram of Loveville to Miss Elizabeth Shrom of Bellefonte, the bride is a neice of Col. Ed. Pruner of this place. Rev Rue performed the ceremony. Miss Shrom is too well and favorably known to need any comments from us while the groom Mr. Ingram is a young farmer, spoken well of by all who know him. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock. Congratulations then followed, then came the supper which was simply all that the heart could wish. The tables were daintily draped in spotless white with centre pieces showing a little color. Sparkling silver, and little dishes of olives gave their charm to the effect. The menu consisted of cold sliced ham, turkey and chicken salad. After this came several kinds of cream and a great variety of cake with excellent coffee. About thirty five guests were present. The bride received many useful presents. Her uncle Ed. Pruner gave a beatiful dinner set, also a chamber toilet set. Among the other gifts that can be rememberee were silver knaiver, and forks, silver spoons, table cloths and knapkins, sheets, pillow cases, towels, handsome rockers, and a beautiful banquet lamp. The calithumpians were promptly upon the ground filling the air with their awful music. This was followed by the Bellefonte band which rendered a delightful serenade. Mr. and Mrs. Ingram departed in a carriage for their mountain home at about 10 o'clock. They will reside with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Garbrick until they can finish their arrangements for housekeeping which will be in about two weeks.

Trouble Among the Pugs

Pittsburg, April 9.—For a time last night there was much excitement in sporting circles. Rumor, apparently well-founded, had it that friends of John Quinn and Mike Connley, the backers of Peter Maher, had put up a job to mob Bob Fitzsimmons as he was leaving the Academy of Music on Liberty street, after the entertainment. Friends of Fitzsimmons heard of this and summoned police protection. Fitzsimmons was taken out at a private exit by his friends and knew nothing of his danger until this morning, and is at a loss to know why Maher's friends should desire to do him personal injury. Fitzsimmons said to-day that he was always a friend of Maher, and was willing to bet $10,000 that Maher could whip Corbett or any other pugalist in the world except himself.

Castoria is truly a marvelous thing for children. Doctors prescribe it, medical journals recommend it and more than a million mothers are useing it in place of Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, so-called soothing syrups and other narcotic and stupefying remedies. Castoria is the quickest thing to regulate the stomach and bowels and give healthy sleep the world has ever seen. It is pleasant to the taste absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, quiets pain, cures diarrhoea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the children's panacea—the mother's friend.

Castoria is put up in one size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow any one to sell to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

Missionaries if Quiet Can Remain.

Washington, April 12.—The Turkish Legation received from the Sublime Porte, under yesterday's date, the following telegram: "It has been falsely stated that the missionaries would be expelled. The imperial government has not taken and does not intend to take any general measure of expulsion of missionaries and Catholic priests. Those among them who attend peacefully to their business are not and will not be disturbed. But, surely, it cannot be the same for those who by their attitude try to disturb the order and tranquility of the country and place themselves in open hostility towards the laws and regulations in force in the empire. The imperial government, watchful of the maintenance of public security, has the power to send them away from its territory, and in so doing it avails itself of a power which nobody in all justice could contest.

AS TO THE DEFENDERS.

Harrisburg, April 9.—The First Defenders of Pennsylvania, an organization composed of the first five companies of troops that reached Washington on the beginning of the civil war, will on Wednesday next set out for Washington over the same route they too thirty five years ago. The Ringgold artillery, of Reading Allen infantry, of Allentown; Washington artillists and national light infantry, of Pottsville, will rendezvous at Reading and come to Harrisburg in the evening, where they will be met by the Logan Guards, of Lewistown. They will be met here by a committee of citizens and escorted to the court house, where they will be given a formal welcome and then make their headquarters at the Bolton House. Later the First Defenders will be tendered a reception at the executive mansion by Governor and Mrs. Hastings. In the original five companies there were 350 members, but only 130 of them are now alive and about 100 are expected to be present on the march. The Defenders will be entertained at Baltimore en route and upon arriving at Washington they will be escorted to their head quarters a Willard's hotel and give a dinner. On Friday they will partake of a planked shad dinner at Mt. Vernon and on Saturday they will call upon the president. They will return to Harrisburg on Saturday evening.

Came to a Sudden Halt.

Pittsburg, April 8.—The trial of the equity suit of R. S. Waring against George Westinghouse, Jr., for the value of 10,000 shares of stock in the Standard Underground Cable company, concluded very abruptly to-day. Yesterday Mr. Waring was unable to produce certain correspondence when called upon to substantiate the allegations of witnesses, and upon the convening of court to-day counsel for the prosecution asked leave to discontinue the case. This the court allowed, requiring Mr. Waring to pay the costs. This winds up the last of the several suits for large amounts which Mr. Waring brought a few years ago.

As to Electric Light.

Harrisburg, April 9.—The State association of electric light companies met at the Commonwealth hotel this evening, in annual session. The old board of officers, including Robert E. Wright, of Allentown, president and J. R. Wheeler, of Pittsburg, secretary, were re-elected. Reports were submitted and matters of interest to the association were discussed.

"HE THAT WORKS EASILY, WORKS SUCCESSFULLY." CLEAN HOUSE WITH SAPOLIO

The Sun Sapphire.

Some years ago I had charge of a large hard wood lumber business on the West coast of Mexico. Toward the evening of a busy day, during which we had been loading one of our large lumber schooners with the aromatic Spanish cedar logs, two men rode up to my jacal, or temporary house of cane and palm leaves, on the beach where I had my office as superintendent. They had come down from the village of La Chola, where we kept our permanent office, upon my invitation to see us load the lumber vessel.

One was an Englishman, a mining engineer, by the name of Pickwick, who had charge of some gold mines not far from La Chola; the other, a Dr. Moses, who, as his name implies, was a Jew. He was a man of the world, accustomed to danger, lithe, quick eyed and quick witted, a fatalist, an expert in games of love and chance, generous and friendly, his morality not of the highest order. He was a good shot, a good liar, a good drinke and a good fellow.

I was glad enough to see them, for a white face is eagerly welcomed in that country of brown ones, and after I had shown them the manner of loading the logs on the schooner, and we had watched the big logs battle with the breakers as they were slowly but surely yanked out on the endless line, we repaired to the jacal for our supper.

During the meal the doctor entertained us by recounting some of his adventures and showed us this ring which I now wear.

"Look closely," said he, "and you will see gleaming far down in the liquid blue depths of this bisected ovoid stone a brilliant golden sun, with its sparkling corona darting out until its rays are quenched in a sea of sapphire blue."

We examined it and greatly admired its beauty. Its central sun shone clearly and steadily.

"The Peruvians," continued the doctor, "prized these stones very highly. They held them sacred and called them opu, and have a very pretty tradition in regard to them: Whenever an Inca ruler was born the sun, who, according to their belief, was his father and whom the Peruvians worshiped as the giver of all things, dissipated a world—a sort of pyrotechnic display in honor of the happy event. All that was pure and good in that world was contrated into this one liquid lump and deposited somewhere to be discovered by some lucky person in the empire. When the Inca ascended the throne, this lucky person came forward, presented the sapphire and received from him some high sinecure.

"The inca carefully guarded the stone and usually had it set in a replendant sunburst of pure gold. This he wore on his breast as insignia of his office. Therefore it was his lucky stone, his guiding star, his life. As long as its central sun remained bright, so long as did that ruler prosper, but when the central sun commenced to pale he knew some danger was coming, and when it went out entirely his death accompanied its extinguishment.

When stately pomp they interred the nca and placed all his jewels with him in mute testimony of his earthly wealth. Of the 18 rulers of the Huacan dysnasta there still remain 5 tombs undiscovered, and if either of you gentlemen feels desirous of possessing one of these stones you can ake a pick and shovel and go to Peru and prospect. Another curious fact is that no one has in modern times been able, as some folks thought could be done, to cut a piece of conundrum, the material composing sapphires, in such a manner as to concentrate the rays of light in one spot as it does, and thus produce a sun.

"Now," continued the doctor, "suppose we turn our attention from the dry subject of religion and indulge as the the French say, 'in ze American game of po kaire,' Are you all agreeable?"

Bidding Dona Maria, the cook, remove the remains of the supper, and calling a fourth hand Theadoro our Mexican fore man, a portage of mine, who, among other accomplishments could have instructed Hoyle in card playing, we sat down to play.

Playing the game of poker to me is not very enjoyable, owing, no doubt to the fact that I invariably lose. It has however, always been my pleasure to hear and tell poker stories all of course absolutely true, but never in the course of my observation or hearing, nor in the wildest flights of my imagination, have I known of such luck as that Jew possessed. The way he held cards that took in our sheckls was awful, atrocious, blood curdling. If I had pairs, he had better ones; If I threes he had a full house; if I had a full house, he had four or straight flush. This continued until I was completely disgusted.

Presently the doctor, who during the last few moments had grown quite pale, much to my surprise said: "Had we not better quit? It is not very valorous in me, who have been winning, to suggest it, but I feel sleepy and you have a hard day before you to-morrow, if you wish to finish loading the scooner. You may have your revenge on me at a later date." And notwithstanding our losses we were very glad to stop.

In the early manbnita, long before the sun had risen and while the thin veil of mist hung low in the massive forest, making it cool and plesant to travel, I bade the doctor and Pickwick adieu, but before they left I intrusted Pickwick with $2,000 in bills to take to La Chola and exchange for silver to send me by meesenger. The rays, or pay roll, of the men fell due next day, and bills were entirely beyond the comprehension or use of a people to whom a dollar was a small sized fortune.

The doctor looked very glum and uneasy, and it seemed to me that he was watching something about his hand. Was it possible that he believed in that old Peruvian superstition and that the signs were inauspicious? As I bade them goodby his face brightened, and he said in a cherry voice as he could command. "Well, old man, goodby, and I hope your revenge will not be put off too long." Then, waving a graceful adios, the two rode away.

That evening Pickwick's messenger arrived to camp, but instead of the money he was to bring, he brought only $1,000 and the following note:

Dear Herbert—I have been able to exchange no more than one half the amount of your bills and now a messenger comes from the mines asking me to start immediately. The large Cornish pump is broker. The lower level is flooded, and I must go immediately to see if I cannot remedy matters. I send you what money I could get. I cleaned out the town of ready cash and have intrusted the balance of the bills to Moses, who will go over to Anaya's ranch this evening [Anaya was something of a banker] exchange the money and send it to you by noon tomorrow. In haste. PICKWICK.

The turn affairs had taken did not please me. I was not willing to trust the doctor, but there was no alternative.

The morning dawned and the sun reached the zenith, but the messenger with the money did not arrive. The day ran on; noon passed. The sun shone in the surfmen's eyes as they worked in the frothing breakers, but the froth of the breakers did not portend money, as does the froth on a cup of tea, for none came.

As I sat at the table, we had used the night before, making up the log list from the measures, tags, my hand happened to stray underneath, and I felt something smooth. Investigation proved it to be cards—three kings and an ace, held ther by a little watch spring arrangement screwed to the soft redwood. They were underneath that part of the table occupied the night before by the doctor.

I was dazed. So this was the reason he won, and I had been fool enough to believe that he played a "straight" game. Calling Theodoro I showed him the "hold out." He was greatly surprised and very angry, and suggested that we pursue the doctor and recover our money. This I decided to do, and telling the men that pay day would be put off until Monday, Theodoro and I set off in a hurry for La Chola.

We arrived in that pretentious village about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and immediately repaired to the Meson de Guadalupe, the only hostelry in the place, to leave our horses. Hardly had we passed through the grand portal of the Meson when Dona Carolina Mendoza, the proprietress, came toward me with such a troubled look that I asked her in afarm what ailed her.

"Ah, valgame Dios! Why did I trust him, the sinverguenza," she wailed.

"What is the matter, Dona Carolina?" I again asked.

"Oh, senor, that picaro Jew has gone away with all his rent and board bill unpaid—more than $24—and that is not all—he took my mare, the best horse in the whole distrito." With this, the poor woman broke down completely.

This was interesting, but not surprising news to me, and I eagerly asked her when he had gone.

"I don't know the hour," she sobbed. "I learned that he had gone only a half hour ago, when I went to put some clean clothes in his room."

Thereupon I hastened to the office of the jefe politico, a police officer with combined state and municipal functions.

I found him idly swinging in a hammock. On my approach he got up and grasped me warmly by the hand and offered me a chair. Disregarding the custom of the country of going around Robin Hood's barn before telling a thing, I immediately proceeded to business, told him all that I have told you and asked him what course had better be pursued.

"It is as I expected," he replied. "Read this." He handed me an official looking document, which proved to be an official letter from the governor of Vera Cruz in regard to a certain Max Bergenstein, who was wanted for two crimes—the abduction of a girl and embezzlement. The description fitted Moses exactly. It was he, without a doubt.

"Why did you not arrest him at once? The description is perfect," I asked.

With a shrug of his shoulders he said: "Well, I thought manana would do as well as to-day, and I still think so. He is gone now and off my hands. Que le vaya bien!"

"But are you not going to try and catch him?" I asked in astonishment.

"Senor Herbert," he answered, with a languid smile, "you are not acquainted with the customs of this country. We Mexicans never fly in the face of Providence as you Americans do. When fortune so favors as to kill for us a great quantity of trouble, we never try to resuscitation that trouble. Besides in this case it would be foolish to exert ourselves. Moses has as you say, Dona Carolina's mare, the fastest horse in the distrtict. He probably started this morning, and if so, is already far down the Manceadero, perhaps at Panuco by this time. You know there are no telegraphs in this state so, amigo, I am sorry but you had better bid your thousand dollars adios, and be thankful they were not more. However if you wish to cool your indignation by chasing Dr. Moses, take as many of my soldiers as you wish. Regard my feelings though, and if you catch him, don't bring him back here. Put him to some good use, such as fertilizing the orchids—they grow high up in the tree." And he smiled significantly.

Thanking him for the offer, I went off to talk the matter over with Theodoro who had learned that Moses took a servant and a pack animal. He learned further that some washerwoman had seen Moses pass at 3 p. m. This news encouraged me, and I asken Theodoro if he thought we could overtake the doctor.

He studied awhile, "Yes" he replied "but in only one way. If we can borrow Don Vicente's horse for you to ride and I get a little mule of mine from over the hill in the milpa, I think we can catch him by morning. He cannot travel very swifuly with his mozo and pack animal. Besides he will go by the coast, which makes a long curve to the west. We will follow a wood trail that I know and save an hour's time between here and Panuco."

"Can we handle him, or shall I borrow some soldiers of the jefe, Theodoro?"

"Senor," he answered, "do you remember the night you saved my life from the woodchoppers? How we fought back to back and whipped those nine macheteros. And when you ask me if we can whip one man. I will go alone and bring him back."

"No, Theo," I replied, "we will go together. Let us eat. Then you can get your little mule and I will ask Don Vicente for his horse.

Supper over, we soon procured our horses, and with many blessings and good wishes from Dona Carolina we started out.

Our way led along the main road, or camino real, until we reached Tzatlan a small village, where we struck the wood trail. There we learned that about 4 p. m. Moses and his servant had passed. Thedoro had carefully studied the ground from La Chola to Tzatlan, and though the light was now falling rapidly we had no difficulty in recognizing the track of Dona Carolina's mare.

We rode hard. At times the way was bad, and we had to slacken our pace. Occasionally we were forced to duck our heads to preserve our eyes from some thorny bush, and once we rode for two miles through a swampy country where the gigantic trees, arching overhead, completely shut out all light. Once when riding over a bushy mesa, my horse stopped and snorted, and there ahead in the moonlight on the trail stood a large jaguar, but only for an instant; then he turned and crashed through the bushes.

At midnight we stopped beside a smal creek and watered the horses and stretched our legs. Oh, how sore I was! I had never ridden so hard before. How I wished for a telegraph line, and I wondered if Herodias suffered as much when she chased her wandering Jew.

About five o'clock in the morning Theodoro, who was ahead, stopped, and I rode up to him. "What is it?" I asked.

"We are now," answered Theo, "about half a mile from Panuco. I think we had better try and stop them here. We have traveled fast, and I don't believe they have passed this point."

I agreeing, we turned down an arroyo and reached the camino real. Here Theodoro made a close scrutiny of the ground by the aid of a couple of lighted matches and assured me that Moses had not yet passed.

We tied our horses a few yards back in the wood, and selecting a large clump of mesquite to hide behind waited with anxious heart the coming of the Jew.

It seemed that we had waited an age, and I was beginning to despair. The day commenced to dawn and the moon to pale when we heard a rattle of hoofs and stones, and Theodoro said to me, "Here he comes; he is about 300 yards away." I hastily looked at the cartridges and cocked the shotgun that I had brought along in preference to a revolver. It was loaded heavily in each barrel was buck shot.

Nearer and nearer came the sounds and looking through the foliage I could see in the dim light Moses and his servant. They were asleep. The mare, tired from her all night trip, was walking slowly.

I stepped out from behing the bush. The mare gave a snort and stopped. The mozo awoke him with a jerk, and seeing two men with guns leveled on his master valorously turned tail and went clattering down the road, leaving the pack mule and Moses to our tender mercies.

"Get off your horse doctor," I cried.

He made an involuntary move toward his revolver, then looked down the barrels of our guns and concluded that it was best to do as I wished.

"That's right," I said. "Now throw up your hands. I don't wish to detain you unnecessarily, doctor, but I would like the money you so kindly changed for me."

Theodoro now stepped up, and while I covered Moses he disarmed him and went through his pockets, grip, blankets and saddlebags, but all he could find in money was $246.

"Where is the rest of my money, doctor?" I asked.

"I lost it cock fighting at Don Ignacio's," he replied,

"All right then your jewelry will be good for $200, and when you get settled in some other country I shall draw on you at sight for the balance."

How his black eyes gleamed with anger at me! Theodoro relieved him of his watch and attempted to take the ring from his hand, but as he did so Moses jerked his hand away and started to run.

"Stop," I cried, "or I'll shoot! Deliver that ring or I'll blow your head off."

He stopped, and with a voice full of sorrow said: "It's no use. I knew it would come to this. Fool that I was to believe that I could in some manner circumvent the predictions of this ring! There, take it." And with a gesture full of bitterness he hurled it at my feet. "May it trouble you as it has me. It has five times unerringly predicted disaster to me, and do my best I cannot escape. Yet I could not bear to part with this stone. It possessed a horrible hold on me. I could not live without knowing the future. Now I am glad it is gone."

"Never mind about me," I replied, "I'll take the chances of the bad luck to come. I ought now to take you back to the jefe, and let him ship you over to Vera Cruz to answer for your crimes there"—he winced at this—"but I shall be more merciful. I know that a Mexican prison is as much to be dreaded as hades, so here is your empty revolver and $5 in silver. My revenge has come quickly, according to your wish, doctor. Now go and let your presence be scarce hereafter in La Chola. You may take the mule."

He climbed on the pack saddle, spurred up the mule and quickly vanished down the road.

Theodoro and I turned to La Chola at our leisure. I gave the watch to him, settled the doctor's board bill, returned the mare, and kept the ballance of the money and the ring myself.

So far I have been fortunate. You see the central sun shines brilliantly.—Rosroe Howard in San Francisco Argonant.

CYRUS STRICKLAND DEAD.

His Sudden Demise on Monday Morning a Great Shock to His Many Friends.

Another one of Bellefonte's old and respected citizens has been called away by the grim hand of death. This time it claimed as its prey all that was mortal of Cyrus Strickland of Bishop street, who breathed his last at exactly 9 o'clock this morning. His death was a great shock to everybody owing to its suddenness. For years he had been unwell, but the thought of his dying so soon never entered the mind of one of his friends. For several days he had been feeling slightly worse than usual, but his condition was not considered dangerous. He arose this morning and his family didn't notice any change, but about 9 o'clock the death angel stole in and before any one could realize what happened his spirit had been wafted into the great beyond and his suffering and troubles were at an end

Born in Union county on the 15th of March, 1828, he came to Bellefonte about 1849, and, with the exception of the time spent in the army, he was a resident of this place for a period of over forty-six years.

When the war broke out and the call for men came in April, 1861, he rang the Court House bell as notice for a meeting, came from this duty into the court room, and if not the first to enlist was among the very first who enrolled themselves as the first defenders of the republic.

The men then enrolled were organized into Company H, under the command of Capt. John B. Mitchell, which belonged to the 2nd Regiment of three months' men. The men were mustered in at Camp Curtin, Harrisburg, April 20, 1861. Of this company the deceased was 1st Corporal.

He was mustered into the service for three years as a member of Company H, 56th Regiment P. V., on the 23rd of December, 1861 Of this company he was a Sergeant.

He remained with the company and performed all the duties of a soldier until the 23rd of August, 1862, when, on duty near Rappahannock Station, he was severely injured in the back. After being injured he was sent to the hospital, where he remained until some time in July, 1863. when he was discharged by reason of disability caused by the injury.

After his return from the army, as before, he made his home in Bellefonte.

He was a carpenter by trade and before the war he helped to do the carpenter work on the main building of what is now the State College.

For years after his return from the army he was superintendent of the water works of Bellefonte.

Since 1886 he has not been able to do any manual labor by reason of the disability occasioned by the injury received in the army. The injury affected his kidneys and the immediate cause of his death was an affection of the kidneys

On Jan. 1st, 1862, he was married to Nancy Huey a daughter of Robt. Huey of Harris Township. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Clara Gardner and Miss Jennie Strickland at home. One daughter Maggie died in infancy.

The funeral services over the remains of Cyrus Strickland were held from his late residence on Bishop street this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment was made at the Union Cemetery, Rev. William Laurie L. L. D., officiating.

The services were largely attended as the deceased was widely known throughout this community. The last rites at the house were very impressive and lasted almost an hour. Dr. Laurie spoke words of comfort to the grief stricken family and friends. He dwelt on the good life of the departed one and emphasised the one fact that we are here but for a short time and then we are taken away by Him who created us.

A large concourse of sorrowing friends followed the cortege to the grave were the remains were interred in the family plot. The pall bearers were Messers. J. A. Aikens, Steel Hunter, Thomas Donachy, Amos Mullen, S. H. Williams and Chas. Smith.

Fire Wednesday Morning.

A slight fire occured about 5 o'clock Webnesday at the residence of Edward Overton, who lives at No 20 Water street. The flames, however, were outened before any serious damage was done.

It seems that the family were up ironing clothes and had a line stretched across the room directly over a red hot stove. This line was used to hang the clothes on and was full of freshly ironed linen. The weight of the clothes was too heavy for the line and it broke precipitating the clothes on the stove. Before anything could be done the clothes had caught fire and the flames spread to the side of the house burning a good bit of the wainscoating before help arrived. The fire was soon outened with the aid of outsiders before any other damage was done. The property, in which the fire occured is owned by Mrs. Dare. The loes will not amount to very much.

Death at the Forge.

Caleb Kephart, aged 87 years, died at his late home at the Forge at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made at the Forge cemetery. The deceased was an old and respected citizen and a highly skilled forgeman. For a number of years he has been employed at the Forge, where his services were recognized as far above the ordinary.

BURIED ON SUNDAY.

Remains of the Late Mrs. Benjamin Schrock, Brought Home for Interment.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Benjamin Schrock, who died at Monte Visto, Colorado. on Monday April 6, was held from the residence of her daughter Mrs. Thomas Donachy on Bishop street on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. J. W. Rue officiating. Interment was made at the Union cemetery,

The remains arrived in Bellefonte on Saturday ccompanied by Mrs. D. J. Elliot, of Monte Visto, and were immediately conveyed to the home of Mrs. Thomas Donachy on Bishop street.

The sad intelligence of the death o Mrs. Schrock was a great shock to her many friends in this place. For years she had made this her home and her friends and acquaintances were many

There was scarcely one who did not know her and to all she was a friend in every sense of the word. Her death is the cause of profound grief to many and there are none who realize the great loss more than the people of this community.

The deceasee was born at Rock Forge and during the greater part of her life she lived in Bellefonte. For several years she had been making her home with her daughter Mrs. D. J. Elliott at Monte Visto, Colorado, and it was at that place that she died. Her illness was not long in fact she was only sick about eight or ten days, but an attack of grip was too much for her weak constitution and about 12 o'clock Monday she died. Her age was about 75 years. During her life she had always been a member of the Methodist church and remained so up to the time of her death. Her many good deeds of kindness and charity in connection with church work will long be remembered after she has gone. While her death has caused great sorrow yet there is much consolation in knowing that it is only to a better and purer world that she has been called to and that her reward in Heaven will be a righteous one.

The surviving family are Mrs. Thomas Donachy of Bellefonte, Mr. William Schrock. Sydney Ohio, Mrs. D. J. Elliott, Monte Visto, Colorado, Mr. Christ Schrock Bellefonte, Mrs. C H. Knott, Akron, Ohio, Mr. John Schrock Tyrone and George of Akron, Ohio. A brother Mr. Joseph Peters of Dayton Ohio and a sister in Illinois are still living.

Sad Death at Howard.

A sad death was that of Demert McKinney, the nineteen year old son of David McKinney of Howard who died at 3 o'clock this morning of consumption. The young man's health had been declining for several years but it was not thought by anybody that the end was so near at hand. Taken off just as he was entering manhood makes his demise al the more sad and distressing. His friends were many and included young and old. For several years he attended a school in Western Pennsylvania but was compelled to leave owing to his poor health. It was thought that he would live much longer but this morning death stole in and claimed its victim.

Buried on Sunday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Benjamin Schrock was held from the residence Mrs. Thomas Donachy on Bishop Street at 3.30 oclock Sunday afternoon. The services were very impressive and were largely attended. The pall-bearers were W. W. Montgomery, W. S. Tripple, Lafayette Mullholland, Nicholas Bauer, D. F. Fortney and Charles Smith. Interment was made at the Union Cemetary. Rev. J. W. Rue had charge of the last rites and in a comforting way spoke of the great reward in store for such as the one who was soon to be left alone for ever.

Meeting at Tyrone.

The Centre county Commissioners this morning went to Tyrone to consult with the Commissioners of Clearfield regarding the construction of a bridge near Moshannon. The Centre county commissioners are always up to time when any needed improvements are to be made and what they do is always for the interest of the people they represent.

Has Gone to the Hospital.

Mrs. John H. Bryan, of East Water street, departed this morning for Pittsburg, where she will enter a hospital to undergo an operation. We sincerely hope she will soon be restored to perfect health and thus be enabled to return to her husband and daughter. This has indeed been a season of trouble to them, and our earnest prayer is that God may be with and comfort them.

Death of Georgie Beezer

Georgie, the 4 year old son of Alfred and Mary Beezer of Rooseburg died at 7 o'clock on Sunday morning after an illness of several weeks. The death of the little fellow will cast a gloom over that community as he was a bright child and a little favorite with everyone.

HIGH SCHOOL RHETORICALS.

Public School Students Presented a Splendid Program on Monday.

The sudden warm weather on Monday had the effect of making almost everybody drowsy and feel like going to sleep. Not so at the Bellefonte High School, however, as there it was the scene of bustle and hardwork. It was the regular day for their weekly literary exercises and that accounted for the intense interest they were taking in everything. The program lasted about an hour and everyone who took part seemed to be making an effort to make that part the best. The subjects taken up were very interesting and were as follows:

Essay—"Steamboats," Robert Lyon.
Declamation—"The Ocean Telegraph," Allan Rumberger.
Essay—"Carpet," Jean McKee.
Essay—"Great Women of To-day," Josie Willard.
Essay—"Catapillars," Wm. Roberts.

A Pleasant Surprise

Tuesday evening marked another chapter in the life of Rev. Rue since he has been a resident of Bellefonte. It was the anniversary of his birthday and the members of his Sunday school class and their wives tendered him a surprise party which was a very enjoyable affair from beginning to end. There were altogether 46 person assembled at the home of their pastor and to say that they took him by storm is putting it mildly. Mrs. Rue had been let into the secret and she had every thing in readiness by the time the guests arrived. Ice cream and cake went a great way towards apeasing the hungry invaders but every body was in for a good time and they had it too with a little to spare. During the evening Mr. H. Harshberger in behalf of the class presented Mr. Rue with a handsome gold tie pin and a neat little inkstand. The recipient responded in a very modest way and thanked the visitors for their kindness and loyalty. At a reasonable hour everybody departed for home but not before wishing Rev. Rue many more such pleasant birthdays.

Trees are Likened to Animals.

R. M. Kellogg, of Ionia county, one of the most successful growers in Western Michigan, and secretary of the West Mich. Horticulture society, blieves that a tree has its likes and dislikes: and that it knows its friends and its enemies when they approach, and has a high degree of intelligence generally. He believes trees are as alive to their surroundings as animals and that their sensibilities must be touched to gain the best results. He has made a life long study of fruit trees and fruit growing. He exploited his theories at the joint convention of Western Michigan horticulture societies in Grand Rapids. His position was not conrtoverted by any in attendance and many agreed with him. —Chicago Times-Herald.

Buried on Wednesday Morning.

The remains of the late Demert McKinney, who died at Howard on Monday morning, were brought to Bellefonte on Wednesday for interment. Low mass was held at the Catholic church, after which the remains were interred at the Catholic cemetry. The pall bearers were Walter Pletcher, Oscar Lucas, Charles Moore, Elmer Holter, Charles Woodward and Clyde Long, all of Howard. The deceased was but 19 years of age and an exemplary young man in every way. His death is a sad blow to his parents as he had given promise of a successful career in life.

Gave Perfect Satisfaction.

Robert Downing's production of "The Gladiator," at Garman's opera house on Tuesday evening, was one of the finest attractions that has ever visited our city. Although the attendance was not as large as it should have been, yet everybody was perfectly satisfied. The actors and actresses were all good and it would be unfair to mention one and not another. The scenery was beautiful and set off the different parts to perfection. The Undine orchestra furnished the music, which was highly satisfactory.

Will Meet In Bellefonte.

On Monday May 5th, the school directors of Centre county will meet in Bellefonte for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent for the next three years. There are two aspirants for the office. Prof. C. L. Gramley of Rebersburg wishes to be re elected, and Prof. Ed. Wolfe of Centre Hall would not seriously object to having the honor thrust upon him. It is to be hoped that the directors will go very slow about making the selection.

—The sociable at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Montgomery on Linn street, on Thursday evening, was a complete success. The attendance was not as large as it would have been had the weather been more agreeable, but as it was, quite a number of guests were present. Excellent refreshments were served and everybody had a delightful time. It was held under the direction of the Altar Guild of the Episcopal church and a neat sum was realized.

About Trout Fishing.

Bellefonte trout fishermen will do well to keep the following in mind:

All persons who shall catch or kill any brook or speckled trout, with any device save only with rod, hook and line, are liable to a fine of $25.

Any person who shall catch or take any brook trout under five inches in length is liable to a fine of $10.

Any person who shall catch, take or kill any trout on Sundays, is liable to a fine of $25.

Any person who shall catch, take or kill trout before the 15th day of April or after the 15th day of July, shall be liable to a fine of $1 for each and every trout taken.

Fish wardens and constables should bring suit against all violations of the fish laws. Where they bring suit and fail to recover the penalties, the cost of suit incurred cannot be imposed upon them, but become a charge on the county, and in nowise can the informant be held responsible. Half of all fines imposed go to the informant, the remainder goes to the county.

The state is stocking the streams of the commonwealth with varieties of fish. They should receive the protection they deserve and give all true fishermen an oppportunity to enjoy the sport in season.

It might be well to state that also a fine of $100 can be imposed under the law for trespassing on private grounds, or in other words, for fishing in any portion of a stream where the channel runs through the private property of any one. This is specially applicable to Spruce creek, the best stream for trout fishing in this vicinity, and we refer to the matter so that fishermen may take the precaution to secure permission to enter the grounds of a private owner before casting his line in the water covered by a deed of an individual or company.

The lawful season for taking trout begins on April 15 and closes on July 15.

Penn's Valley.

The citizens of Spring Mills will soon begin building a new boardwalk from the foot bridge across Penn Creek to Sinking Creek bridge a distance of about six-hundred feet, and also from the Penn Creek bridge, south to the Granger Hall possibly three hundred feet. These walks have evidently long been needed, as I am informed that now they are simply much frequented pathways, and when the muddy season begins about this time of the year, the mud rarely stops when even knee deep. And they tell me, that expletives more emphatic than polite, were frequent uttered by the sinful and mud wading pedestrians.

John Bower the active butcher of Aaronsburg, last week commenced his regular spring and summer trips through the valley with his meat wagon. The remains of an old cow, new pieces of ancient steak will never be found in his wagon. Mr Bower deals only in first class meats.

J. H. B. Hartman has commenced driving the Millheim foundry wagon through Penn's Valley.

Last week C. A. Krape and wife made a short visit to Philadelphia.

A few days since I met Dr. Allison, quite an eminent physician of Northumberland, who had been up this way visiting for a day only. He is the son of Archibald Allison Jr. a very prominent and highly respected gentleman of Spring Mills. The Dr. formerly resided in that place.

Cronister of Worth township, democratic candidate for the nomination for sheriff was down our way last week. He tarried over night in Spring Mills, and has lots of friends in this neighborhood, and is somewhat popular through the valley. Long the republican candidate for nomination for treasurer, was also down this way as terribly on business, but possibly with a little politics mixed with it. However no one questions his poularity throughout these valleys, and consequently his political fences need no repairing. Sholl of College township, republican candidate for the nomination of commissioner, was likewise a visitor last week. Mr. Sholl has quite a respectable following scattered throughout this section, and his friends are very active. Meyers democratic candidate for the same office was also here he is well known throughout this section. If my information is correct, the comming week these valleys will be quite a Mecca for the faithful. I hear of large "invoices" coming, and of "pilgrims" who are making great preparations to assail the western side of the mountain, and will boldly demand and insist that "I" must be nominee to save the ticket, of course we will give them all a patient hearing—and then do as we please afterwards.
